Marin City Food Giveaway Goes Off Without A Hitch

The Hearst food giveaway came to Marin for the first time today, and boxes of goods were distributed in an efficient, orderly fashion to anyone who showed up.

A short line moved briskly throughout the morning after doors were opened at 8 a.m. at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City.

It was one box to a person for as long as the food lasted. One volunteer said he expected supplies to be exhausted at about noon.

Pasted to a window at the church entrance was a poster of a seven-headed cobra, symbol of the Symbionese Liberation Army, kidnapers of Patricia Hearst, 20-year-old daughter of newspaper executive Randolph Hearst.

Men, women and children carried boxes from the distribution center to waiting cars, or lugged them up a slight hill to their apartments in public housing.

Despite a steady rain, everyone seemed in good spirits and many expressed gratitude for the food. There was none of the disorganization and outbreaks of violence that marred previous efforts by the People In Need program.

Some leaders from the local black community manned the entrance. Persons were admitted in small groups to pick up boxes and exit through a side door. As was the policy in the past, no photographers were allowed inside.

Anyone there for any purpose but to receive food was asked to leave. Questions from a reporter about the program — the monetary value of each parcel, when the distribution center was set up — were discouraged. The attitude seemed to be to keep lines moving efficiently and press coverage of the giveaway at a minimum.

Asked if the food was of top quality, as was demanded by the SLA, one elderly woman replied: "There's eggs in there. At 89 cents a dozen, that's quality enough for me."

Boxes contained eggs, fresh milk, poultry or meat, fresh vegetables, some dried goods, frozen fish and other items. A sticker of the SLA cobra marked each box. A leaflet handed out to each person announced "foods contained in this box are top quality and were stored at 33 degrees to maintain freshness." It went on with instructions in English and Spanish on how long to store the food and gave some suggestions on how it should be prepared.

For example: "Eggs may have burst in freezing. They are still clean and safe. Use them for scrambling, baking, cooking, etc."

Volunteers standing behind a long table handed out the boxes, which were stacked halfway to the ceiling in a main room of

Thousands Turn Out For Food

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Thousands of persons turned out in heavy rain today to pick up boxes that contained steaks and fresh produce in the resumption of the food giveaway program demanded by the terrorist kidnapers of Patricia Hearst.

Although the distribution at 17 San Francisco area locations was scheduled to start at 8 a.m., many persons got in line hours early despite the downpour.

Operators of the "People In Need" program sponsored by Patricia's father, Randolph A. Hearst, said the giveaway was intended to come as close as possible to the $70 worth of free groceries for every needy Californian demanded by the Symbionese Liberation Army which kidnaped the girl Feb. 4.

A typical box distributed at a center in the predominantly Latin-American Mission district of San Francisco included four or five steaks, some of them T-bone cuts, two packages of frozen file of sole, a frozen chicken, a dozen eggs, a quart of milk, a jar of peanut butter, a package of fresh produce that included yams, onions, oranges, apples and bananas, and other foodstuffs.

The line at the Mission district distribution center stretched for more than two blocks with about 400-500 persons waiting at 8 a.m. Because of the crowd, the center began handing out the food early. There were no restrictions on how many boxes could be taken by one person and a number had more than one.

One man wheeled two of the food boxes away in a wheelchair, and another had a box on his shoulder while limping along on one crutch.

Although they had been asked by PIN officials to bring shopping carts, a number of persons turned up in automobiles, some of them Cadillacs.

One woman left balancing a box on head. Several boxes were being loaded into the same automobile. No one appeared cheerful.

"I've been waiting in the rain since six o'clock," one man said.

The distribution was possibly the last under the People In Need program. Spokesmen for PIN said they had about $1 million left to devote to the program and that it all might be spent today.

The latest distribution was the fifth since Patricia was kidnaped seven weeks ago and the SLA demanded the distribution as a "good faith gesture." It took place at 17 outlets throughout the San Francisco Bay Area.

Nixon Given Until Friday For Response To Subpoena

Jaworski Extends Time At Request Of Lawyer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today was given four more days to answer Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's subpoena for more Watergate materials.

Jaworski said he was extending the deadline to Friday on the request of James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate attorney, who wanted more time to study the subpoena.

Jaworski filed the subpoena March 15. Neither he nor the White House would say what materials Jaworski asked for. In extending the deadline, Jaworski said, he also was reemphasizing the need for the materials.

Asked why St. Clair sought the delay, White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said he did not have the details of the discussion between Jaworski and St. Clair.

But, Ziegler added, Jaworski "agreed to extend the time by four days so, I assume, that St. Clair could evaluate the subpoena and make a judgment in terms of the response."

Ziegler also said he did not know if St. Clair has discussed the subpoena with Nixon. In another Watergate-related development, attorneys for three of the seven Watergate defendants said they would let pass today's 5 p.m. EDT deadline for a Supreme Court appeal to halt grand jury material from going to the House Judiciary Committee, which is studying the possible impeachment of Nixon.

Attorneys for H. R. Haldeeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Gordon Strachan said they would not challenge Friday's appeals court ruling that U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica correctly ordered release of the material — which, Sirica said, focuses on Nixon's role in Watergate — to the Judiciary Committee.

A spokesman for the Judiciary Committee said no meetings dealing with the impeachment study had been scheduled, and none would be until the material was received from Sirica's office.

Jaworski's extension of the deadline for a response to his subpoena came after a call for "conciliation" from Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Baker urged yesterday that if there were "any reasonable claim" that 42 presidential tapes or other documents dealing with Watergate are relevant to the House investigation, then the White House should surrender them.

Baker also said that the House Judiciary Committee should honor "whatever reasonable requests the President makes, such as the presence of counsel in the principal deliberations and investigations of the committee."

St. Clair has asked for White House attorneys to be present at Judiciary Committee hearings to cross-examine witnesses appearing before it.

The committee itself was considering whether to subpoena "materials held by Nixon. The President had refused to surrender the 42 tapes and other materials on grounds the committee sought a "fishing expedition" into confidential presidential files.

Baker said the most important question the tapes could answer was about "hush money" being paid to the Watergate burglars. That matter supposedly was discussed March 21, 1973, in a conversation involving the President and former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Dean has testified before the Senate Watergate committee that Nixon told him raising $1 million to pay for silence from those charged with the Watergate break-in would be no trouble.

Nixon has said he added, "it would be wrong" to pay such money. The President added that one could interpret the tapes both ways, "but I know what I meant" — that it should not be done.

Baker said, "I think the most important thing the President can do right now is to decide that the electorate ... will make these judgments."

Pastor Denounces Food Giveaway As A Violence-Inspired Charity

Today's food giveaway in Marin City was denounced by two of the community's leaders as violence-inspired charity and an affront to a community that cares for its own.

"I don't think that we need to hold a gun on anybody to force them to feed us," declared Rev. Fred Small of the Church of God in Marin City. He said his church has been giving away free food each Monday evening for more than a year, and often has more food than takers.

The Church of God food mission program at times fed 100 persons but the number has tapered off, the clergyman said.

Alvis Allen, president of the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, and a deacon and elder of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church where the People in Need program held its giveaway program today, issued a five-page statement criticizing the event. He praised other churches in the community for "refusing to allow this distribution to come into our community through the use of their facilities."

Allen added that St. Andrew Church also has its own food program for needy persons.

Pastor Small reported the Hearst food giveaway brought "lines of fine cars" waiting to get food.

Allen said that "we ... are shocked, hurt and angered by the action of the St. Andrew Church Session (board of directors) for approving the People in Need visit to Marin City. He said that the request came from a group known as The Coalition rather than from the Hearst-supported People In Need program.

The session first approved the request March 3, again last Thursday, and a third time yesterday. Allen charged that only two of the board's nine members live in Marin City. None are members of the home-owner group, he said.

"We who are parents have deep feelings for the Hearst family in this situation," Allen wrote. "We pray for Patty's safety ... we cannot affirm that the ends justifies any means."

"We commend members of this community ... who through difficult struggles have made for themselves here a home — without resorting to methods violating others' dignity."

He added that condoning the Symbionese Liberation Army's ransom demands could "leave nothing but tears to our children and lay shame upon ourselves."

"We know there are people in need in Marin County ... but we are willing to meet these needs without any extreme measures," Allen stated.

Gas Lines Have Almost Disappeared In Marin

Lines of cars waiting for gasoline this morning were short or nonexistent in many cases, as motorists found fuel easier to come by than in some weeks.

"Having a few stations open yesterday apparently took some of the pressure off," said a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol. He also said that the combination of rain and a Monday morning brought fairly heavy congestion on Highway 101 during commute time today.

Brezhnev Has High Hopes For Pact On Arms Limits

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev opened talks today with U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and expressed hope of reaching a new strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement this year.

The Communist Party general secretary made the comment to newsmen just before a three-hour meeting at the Kremlin with Kissinger.

Kissinger later said both sides are determined to overcome obstacles to better Soviet-American relations, including domestic criticism in the United States to the effect that detente is working to Soviet advantage.

"This period of cooperation, of dealing with each other cooperatively and fairly, which was started two years ago, has gained in strength and will continue," Kissinger told a luncheon given by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Kissinger said obstacles to this cooperation arise but, "We are determined to remove them. Occasionally we find domestic criticism, but we are determined to overcome it."

Kissinger said that the greatest goal of the Nixon administration is that "over the next three years we can make the relationship that has grown up between our two peoples irreversible."

The Kissinger visit is expected to pave the way for Russian visit by President Nixon. While agreement on a new arms limitation agreement will be the main issue in the three days of talks, other problems include differences on trade and the Middle East that have cooled the detente between the two powers.

Both men were in an expansive, bantering mood when they entered the Kremlin room where the Soviet Politburo meets every Thursday.

Asked about the prospects for a SALT agreement this year, the target date set by Nixon, Brezhnev replied:

"I take an optimistic view on that. We have made a very good beginning on that process. The further we proceed from the date of the first SALT agreement in 1972, people will really appreciate the importance of that significant step."

"That document speaks of peace and good neighborliness because the only other alternative is war. There is no other alternative."

When Kissinger entered the room a moment later, Brezhnev told him he had been talking to the press. "I told them I was optimistic and they agreed with me that all want peace. That makes it easier to start."

Brezhnev also expressed the opinion that "relations at this point (with the United States) are good. There is much work to do at this time."

"You do want it better, don't you?" a newsmen asked.

"There are such people who would like to see things worse," Brezhnev replied.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Armed Forces Purge Ordered

NAIROBI (UPI) — President Idi Amin of Uganda has ordered a purge of the armed forces following an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow him by his Russian-trained chief of staff in a fierce weekend battle with machineguns and tanks, Western diplomatic sources said today.

Several officers have been arrested, others have fled and the ring leader of the shortlived rebellion killed himself, the sources said.

Dissident army units late Saturday night and yesterday morning briefly occupied the city in an attempt to topple the three-year-old regime of the former sergeant major.

New Attacks

SAIGON (UPI) Communist forces broke off major fighting north of Saigon but launched heavy new attacks in the Mekong Delta, the Saigon command said today.

Four stiff fights were reported around Cang Long district capital, 50 miles south of Saigon just below the Mekong River mouth, the command said.

Mild Quake

NEW DELHI (UPI) — A mild earthquake struck the capital of the riot-scarred Indian state of Bihar yesterday, causing panicky residents to ignore curfews and flee into the streets.

The Press Trust of India said the quake was minor, lasting only a few seconds. PTI made no mention of casualties or damage.

Strike Threat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some New Yorkers could be hitchhiking by next Monday unless a new contract is reached before then between the Transit Workers Union and the Transit Authority, which operates the city's buses and subways.

The 4,000 members at a union meeting yesterday shouted approval of a proposal to authorize a strike at 5 a.m. next Monday, and instructed union representatives to take a "no contract, no work" position in negotiations.

U.S.-Russian Detente Unlikely, Says Chou

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, in a speech that coincided with the visit to Moscow by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, said last night there can be no real detente between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"The two superpowers at times talk about detente," he said, "but in actuality they are engaged in an intense rivalry."

This rivalry is rooted in a struggle "to seize world hegemony," he added.

Chou's remarks were made in a speech delivered at a welcome banquet he gave in Peking's Great Hall of the People for President Julius K. Nyerere of Tanzania. Nyerere arrived in Peking yesterday morning on his third visit to China.

Chou devoted a considerable portion of his remarks to Soviet-American relations. He did not mention either country specifically by name nor did he refer to Kissinger's current visit to Russia. But diplomatic analysts specializing in Chinese affairs said his remarks obviously were connected with the Kissinger visit.

CHOU EN-LAI Cites rivalry

The world situation, Chou said, is characterized "by universal great disorder" and this is "unfavorable...to the two superpowers which are contending with each other in a vain attempt to seize world hegemony."

Latin America Is New Drug Trade Connection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "French connection" is giving way to the "Latin American connection" in the battle against drug-trafficking.

The head of the federal drug enforcement department says "everybody and his uncle" is getting in the drug business as hardcore professionals languish behind bars.

John F. Bartels Jr., administrator of drug enforcement for the Justice Department, said in an interview in U.S. News & World Report the back of the "French connection" has been broken.

"Those five French-Corsican families which for years brought in between 70 and 80 per cent of the heroin into this country aren't operating," said Bartels.

"But now any guy with $2,000 can walk across the Rio Grande or go into Tijuana, hang around a bar and find something to buy and sell. Everybody and his uncle is in the business now."

The amateurs now are operating out of France, Mexico, South America, Southeast Asia, the United States — anywhere there are drugs to be had or used, according to Bartels.

"People rent planes, fly down to Mexico, pick up a couple hundred pounds of marijuana, an ounce or two of cocaine and bring it back," he said. Some dealers have also been known to use aliens as "mules" to bring drugs into the United States.

Bartels said it is also getting harder to guard every potential port of entry for illegal drugs with the growth of the Latin American in-flow. Such relatively new entry points as Miami, Seattle and Vancouver "are a serious problem."

Asked about incidents where narcotics agents have broken into the wrong house or arrested the wrong person, Bartels said his department is cracking down on such unauthorized "frolics."

Budget Session

The proposed 1974-75 budget will be discussed at today's meeting of the Nicasio School District trustees at 7 p.m. in Nicasio School.

Simon Says Fuel Saving Still Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans should have more gasoline for summer vacation driving but they will have to conserve fuel by observing the 55 m.p.h. speed limit and curtail use of their air conditioners.

In presenting this prospect yesterday, energy Chief William E. Simon also predicted increased gasoline supplies would bring higher prices because of the resumption of imports of expensive Arabian oil. He said they would go as high as 75 cents per gallon in the northeast.

Interviewed on ABC's Issues and Answers, Simon said motorists must carry on with conservation measures such as slower driving, less use of automobile air conditioners, and not making unnecessary trips.

Yesterday was the first Sunday since January that gas stations were permitted to remain open and Simon said this — coupled with the ending of the Arab's oil embargo — might lull some Americans into minimizing the depth of the energy shortage.

Israel And Syria Continue Shelling

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Artillery fire exploded in the Golan Heights between Syria and Israel for the 14th straight day today. Egyptian diplomatic sources said there must be a disengagement agreement there before further talks between Egypt and Israel.

Both Israeli and Syrian spokesmen reported the new firing in what appeared to be attrition fighting preceding the disengagement talks.

The Israeli newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said Syria rejected a United Nations truce observers proposal to stop the clashes for a week, while Israel "immediately responded positively."

Egyptian diplomatic sources said that the current Middle East peace efforts of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger could result in a Syrian-Israeli accord by late April or early May, setting the stage for the Sinai talks and a second Israeli troop pullback there.

A Syrian communique said Arab gunners scored direct hits on an Israeli observation post at Tel Al Faras in the southern sector of the Golan Heights Sunday, destroyed an engineering unit and killed or wounded "a number" of Israeli troops.

An Israeli communique said there were no casualties in the 30-minute barrage which began at midday and that Israeli gunners did not return the fire.

In a message yesterday to an Afro-Asian peoples conference in Baghdad, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said Egypt is not prepared to conclude a separate peace settlement with Israel, give up one inch of occupied Arab lands or bargain with the rights of the Palestinians.

Nixon Marriage Plaque Is Stolen

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — The plaque commemorating President Nixon's marriage at the Mission Inn has apparently been stolen.

Hotel manager Sandra Hartness reported to police yesterday that the plaque had been pried loose from its place in the inn's courtyard, some time since March 11. The President, then a young lawyer, was married in the courtyard of the historic inn on June 21, 1940.

Teachers Strike In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's two major teachers' unions struck the public schools today, but administration spokesmen said they hoped to keep classes going with substitute teachers and supervisory personnel.

The strike, by the American Federation of Teachers and the Classroom Teachers Association, was expected to keep more than 80 per cent of the city's 4,500 teachers out of classes.

"We are on strike because the school board refused to negotiate with us over the weekend," said a spokesman for the CTA. "San Francisco's children and teachers are being used as pawns."

The AFT has been on strike for more than two weeks, but it was only joined today by the CTA. Up to now, schools had remained open with about 70 per cent of the teachers in class and about half of the city's 76,000 students.

A smaller teachers' organization, the Teachers Association of San Francisco, said its 400 members would honor the picket lines.

Dr. Eugene Hopp, president of the Board of Education, said he expected more than 50 per cent of the teachers to cross the picket lines and attend classes.

In a last minute effort to head off the strike, Mayor Joseph L. Alioto attempted to call a meeting of union and board of education officials. Teachers representatives agreed to go, but the board declined.

A meeting was scheduled for later today between board representatives and the Certificated Employees Council, the official negotiating body for the teachers.

"The board has made its final offer," Hopp said. "This is as far as we can go. There's no point in having a meeting. What is there to discuss?"

He said the board would attend a meeting only when there was an indication the teachers wish to settle "on the basis of our final offer."

The critical issue in the negotiations is wages. The teachers have demanded 15 per cent, while the district has offered 6.5 per cent.

Over the weekend both sides indicated interest in an alternative proposal for a straight $1,000-per-year raise for every teacher.

But the talks recessed with no agreement.

During the strike by AFT members, schools have remained open on half-day schedules with about 70 per cent of the teachers still working.

Dog Thief May Be In Danger

DETROIT (UPI) — Harvey, a German shepherd guard dog that bit every one of the 366 suspects he helped capture last year, has been stolen, his handler Arthur Jackson said yesterday.

Jackson, a Detroit schools safety officer said he fears the thief may be in some danger. The dog was stolen from Jackson's patrol car Saturday.

"When a man was dumb enough to try the same thing last, Harvey put him in the hospital with multiple bites to the arms and shoulder," Jackson said.

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition HERE'S HEALTH! BY JUNE EMBURY

WE CAN'T SUPPLY GASOLINE BUT WE HAVE PLENTY OF "FUEL" FOR DIETING

"Great news for 'Family Circle' dieters." We now have everything that's specified, including vitamin B6 with potassium and magnesium. Because of the demand for that supplement, along with help, lecithin and apple cider vinegar, some of our supplies ran out. But we've remedied the situation.

A reminder: If you're on the diet, please don't neglect calcium. Nutrition authority, Linda Clark explains why in KNOW YOUR NUTRITION. When calcium intake isn't raised to balance a high phosphorous content (provided by lecithin) a calcium deficiency can result. As phosphorous is excreted from the body, calcium goes with it. One tell-tale sign of imbalance: leg cramps. It's essential to know your nutrition, always!

the church. A trailer van used to carry the food to Marin City sat empty in the driveway.

Two Marin County Sheriff's deputies sat in patrol cars parked unobtrusively in a service station across the street. Police reported no incident connected with the giveaway.

Directors of the People In Need program announced at 10:30 last night that the free food distribution would begin again today at 17 sites in the Bay Area.

The program was begun last month in response to demands by the kidnapers of Miss Hearst, taken from her Berkeley apartment the night of Feb. 4. She has been heard from only in tape recorded messages from the SLA since then.

Doctor Shortage Easing Is Seen

CHICAGO (UPI) — The shortage of doctors should be over by 1980, the Journal of the American Medical Association reported today.

The often quoted "shortage of 50,000 doctors" is probably an exaggeration in terms of overall numbers, reported Dr. James K. Cooper and Karen Heald of the Rand Corp., Washington D.C.

The total number of physicians has kept up with the population, improving from a ratio of 119 doctors per 100,000 population in 1950 to 152 in 1971. The problem is in the number of physicians who handle primary care and in geographical distribution of doctors, the two said.

North Koreans Ask Peace Talks

TOKYO (UPI) — North Korea asked the United States today to begin negotiations on a four-point peace settlement of the 1950-53 Korean war. It said South Korea would be excluded from the talks.

"We formally propose to the United States of America to discuss the question of replacing the existing military armistice agreement with a peace agreement," said North Korean Foreign Minister Ho Dam.

Ho's proposal was endorsed by the Supreme People's Assembly, the North Korean Parliament. It also approved the text of a letter requesting peace talks to be sent to the U.S. Congress.

Reward Offered In Boy's Beating

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who assaulted an Oakland newspaper boy March 3 was posted yesterday by the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co.

Robert E. Hanson, 10, was found lying unconscious in a doorway of the Oakland Roman Catholic Diocese offices by his brother, Brian, 11.

He had been beaten so severely that he has no skull left from the crown of his head to his left temple. Although he awoke from a coma a week ago, the boy is still in a semi-comatose state and has not been able to speak.

Takeover Report Hit By Corrections Head

The head of Marin's Department of Corrections took issue today with a report calling for the agency's takeover by the county probation department.

The report was issued two weeks ago by the county administrator's office.

Ralph Merola, head of the department of corrections, said he will not fight the recommendation, due for consideration tomorrow by the board of supervisors.

But he did question some of the data used by the administrator's office in preparing the recommendation. He said administrative analyst James J. Finane apparently was misinformed on several points.

Finane called inmate rehabilitation programs at the honor farm, an arm of the corrections department, "basically an extension of existing programs in the probation department — the work furlough program."

But Merola called this assertion untrue. In addition to work

Hearst donated food. The giveaway, demanded by Patricia Hearst's kidnapers, began at 8 a.m. and was expected to continue till noon.

furlough, honor farm inmates may participate in group therapy, individual counseling, drug and alcohol therapy, educational counseling, instruction and tutoring, and library services.

Of these, only individual counseling is available to inmates housed in the county jail, said Merola.

Finane criticized "fragmentation" in the county's handling of inmates, but Merola called fragmentation an "unavoidable, natural condition of the criminal justice system," involving police, judges, the sheriff, the probation department and his department.

Merola said Finane's recommendation makes no claims that a merger would be more economical, efficient or result in better services to inmates.

Placing another administrator between the board of supervisors and the department of corrections could only have a "dampening effect" on the department's rehabilitative programs, said Merola.

Merola said he took the job as head of the department "with the understanding that we would be allowed to run our program for a year or two" before any decision was made on the ultimate fate of the agency.

But his department has been operating the honor farm only since Jan. 1, he said.

Nixon's Brother To Retire Early

WASHINGTON (UPI) — F. Donald Nixon, the President's brother, is resigning from the Marriott hotel chain because of ill health, the firm announced. He will take early retirement April 15.

A Marriott spokesman said in addition to Nixon's health problems, the corporation had embarked on an austerity program caused by the energy crisis.

Because of that combination, Nixon and the firm decided jointly Nixon would take early retirement and will represent the company as a consultant through Jan. 31, 1975.

Nixon joined Marriott early in 1970 as vice president for community and industry relations based in Newport Beach.

Novato Man Arrested After Crash

A Novato driver was arrested on suspicion of felony drunk driving early today after his car crashed into a retaining wall at Pioneer Memorial Cemetery.

The driver, William Melvin Slater Jr., 24, of 6 Equestrian Court, was arrested at 1:41 a.m. at Simmons Lane and Virginia Avenue, officers reported.

Officers said Slater's car went through a stop sign at Grant Avenue and Seventh Street, travelled west along Virginia Avenue at 50 to 55 miles an hour with a police car in pursuit, skidded past the stop sign at Simmons Lane and hit the wall.

Jack Preston Boyles, 26, of Santa Rosa, a passenger, suffered a head cut but refused medical treatment, police said.

Slater was booked at Marin County Jail. Bail was set at $1,250 and he was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Trains To Mexico City Studied

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — By summer, passenger trains may run from St. Louis all the way to Mexico City, eliminating the need to change trains at the Mexican border.

National Railways of Mexico offered to furnish the sleeper cars and anything else necessary to restore international passenger service without the border change.

But Stanley Campbell, vice president of the San Antonio

Chamber of Commerce, said during a weekend meeting with Mexican rail officials that many details remained to be decided.

He hopes, however, that by June 1, passenger trains may run at least three times weekly from St. Louis to Mexico City, eliminating the need to change trains at Laredo, Tex., or Nuevo Laredo across the Rio Grande in Mexico.

Amtrak, the U.S. train service has an equipment shortage. The Mexican rails said they would furnish the necessary number of roomette and bedroom cars for either weekly, tri-weekly or daily service, Campbell said.

Mexican officials met with San Antonio chamber officers on a three weekly package plan. It would allow passengers on sleeper cars to spend one day in Nuevo Laredo, then re-board the following morning for Mexico City.

Mexican representatives agreed in the San Antonio meetings that passengers could undergo on-board customs inspections. They would need to detrain at the crossing on the northbound trip, however.

Monday, March 25, 1974

Independent Journal, 5

Campbell said Amtrak needs to "find" 45 minutes in its southbound schedule from St. Louis to Texarkana, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio and Laredo, to merge with Mexican schedules.

The Mexican officials have already agreed to save 45 minutes south of the border, he said Saturday.

Telephone conferences between Amtrak, San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and Mexican authorities should serve to conclude the arrangements for restored through-train service, Campbell said.

Congress And Our Deepening Federal Debt

Carl H. Madden, chief economist for the United States Chamber of Commerce, cites four undesirable records achieved in the federal budget for next fiscal year:

"(1) The $304.4 billion spending total is the biggest in history; (2) the $30 billion increase over last year is the largest in peacetime history; (3) The 73 per cent of spending that is "relatively uncontrollable" is the biggest percentage in history; and (4) The $75 billion cumulative deficit between 1970 and fiscal 1975 is the biggest ever in peacetime."

IT IS NOT mere coincidence that the cost of living, as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, has increased approximately 38 per cent since 1970.

The inflation curve steepens as government deficits deepen. This is inescapable, because when the government spends more than it receives, it must borrow to make up the difference. And since the borrowing is against its own money, this cheapens the money.

That's why we no longer have silver in our dimes, quarters and half dollars, and may soon have no copper in our pennies. The coins have become, like paper money, merely tokens.

IT WAS THEREFORE disappointing that the Senate last week rejected 52-to-35 a proposal by Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind-Va., to require the federal government to have a balanced budget each year (as the State of California is required by its constitution to do).

There was, however, a reason for the rejection of Byrd's proposal, which was offered as an amendment to the budget reform bill being debated by the Senate. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who led the opposition, questioned its constitutionality.

The budget reform bill contains provisions to provide much closer watchdogging of the budget making process, including five-year projections of the impact of new programs. This should put the brakes on the "virtually uncontrollable" percentage of federal spending, which rises year by year because new programs were initiated without sufficient analysis of their long-term costs.

But Congress cannot by itself put the federal government on a permanent pay-as-you-go basis, for the reason cited by Senator Ervin: It lacks constitutional power to do so.

THE SOLUTION, as we have suggested before, is a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

This would be no innovation. Forty of the 50 states now have such constitutional provisions. California is one of them. The State of California cannot increase its public debt without submitting the measure to vote of the people.

Every two years, we have some ballot measures proposing state bond issues for one purpose or another. Many of them pass. But the state's debt never gets out of control, because the governor is not permitted to accept an unbalanced budget.

The same control at the federal level would eliminate the ridiculous deficit spending that is making the American dollar worth less and less, and negating pay increases by causing inflation to outrun them.

Without it, we can expect to continue to have cheaper and cheaper money, until we reach national bankruptcy

Gerald Ford Walks Tightrope In His Support Of President

Vice President Ford is treading a fine line. It's a delicate one with pitfalls. He wants to defend the president but retain an independent position. He aims to be the president's man when he can but remain his own man when he feels he needs to.

The danger is he might lose both. He believes that too much open divergence from Mr. Nixon might make it appear he was eager for the president's job.

To this question, "Do you believe anybody would think you might conspire to dethrone the president?" his answer was: "Yes, some people might think so."

WILL ARABS REIMPOSE OIL EMBARGO? It is possible but there are these powerful forces working against it: The oil embargo has accomplished about all it can — diplomatically.

To reimpose it would be counterproductive; it would alienate the people and the government of the United States.

A majority of the Arab states want no more of the embargo, and Egypt's President Anwar Sadat will be doing everything he can to keep it from being reimposed.

WHAT ARE KISSINGER'S DIPLOMATIC CARDS? U.S. Secy. of State Henry Kissinger is in a good position in his Middle East negotiations.

Egypt urgently wants a permanent resolution of the Arab-Israeli conflict, and Syria is in no position to hang back. Syria can't take on Israel without Egypt's help, and Sadat wants no more war if an acceptable peace can be arranged.

Kissinger is the only diplomat who can help get such a peace.

NEGOTIATING ISSUES ARE VERY STICKY. They are not insoluble if both sides are willing to face the alternative realistically. The alternative is recurring outbreaks of war, taking a greater toll every time, and from which both sides will emerge continually weaker.

Egypt and Israel are ready for compromise. Syrian officials are beginning to explore compromises behind the scenes. One idea is that Syria would seek to recover legal sovereignty over the Golan Heights, which would then be totally demilitarized under United Nations protection.

JACKSON AMENDMENT COMPROMISE IN THE MAKING. The administration needs the trade and monetary negotiating authority provided in legislation now stymied by the amendment to deny equal treatment to the Soviet Union unless it permits freer emigration of Soviet Jews.

The president opposes this provision primarily on the ground it will do no good and much harm. A compromise is being explored. Under it Congress would approve the Jackson amendment as a declaration of congressional intent and leave it with the White House to judge whether Moscow is taking good-faith steps to permit more Jews to leave Russia.

THOSE SPONTANEOUS ANTI-SOLZHENITSYN LETTERS. You will recall that Pravda and other Soviet government publications printed a rash of letters described as pouring in from all parts of the country. It was called an "uprising of spontaneous resentment" against the "slanders" of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's "Gulag Archipelago."

Now the truth comes out. For example, Viktor Nebrasov, Russian prize-winning military author, discloses that he was told his books would no longer be published if he failed to take part in the denunciations of Solzhenitsyn. 1973, Los Angeles Times.

Forecasts And Explanations Get Wilder As Campaign Warms

Political seasons generate remarkable speculations about how well campaigns are doing. Anybody can play; just reach up and grab a piece of the blue, and you are armed with all you need to opine on the state of each candidate's campaign.

Once you have convinced yourself that candidate "F" is going to overcome candidate "W's" early lead, all you need do is spill your special insight into other ears. You can mask your doubts by declaring you are passing along a fact with widespread acceptance.

In fact, no one is going to know how good a campaign was until a few hours after the polls close on June 4. Anything said before then about local elections is just someone's wild guess, probably inspired by a special interest in the outcome.

HOWARD HANSON, candidate for Marin County clerk, has assured us that it was only "a misunderstanding" that led several persons to think they heard him tell them that the county's superior court

ERNEST B. FURGURSON: Burning Oil Issue

DOVER, Del. — Once there were nights when Americans along the coast near Delaware Bay, and others flanking the Virginia capes, could look out to sea and watch torpedoed tankers burning orange against the blackness. The next day or the day after, the surf washed layers of oil onto the beaches, and it was long after the tide of war had turned before the black scum along the high-water line disappeared.

Now, 31 and 32 years later, the Atlantic Coast is under attack again, not from Nazi submarines but from industries and developers. They see the country's alleged fuel shortage as an opportunity to strike while the defenders are panicked and divided.

The campaign ranges from the country's extreme corner at Eastport, Me., down past Durham, N.H., up the Chesapeake Bay as far as Piney Point, Md., down past the towering sand dune named Jockey's Ridge on North Carolina's Outer Banks, all the way to the Florida Keys. Repeatedly, the attack converges here on Delaware.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY: Letters To The I-J

President Nixon On Night Club Circuit?

Of late, there has been more and more criticism of President Nixon, along with many innuendos and charges, all unproved.

Sixty per cent of the American people think he is a liar, a cheat, and even guilty of criminal offenses. Thirty per cent think he has done no wrong and he is being crucified by his opponents. Ten per cent have no opinion.

I have great respect for this man who ruined Helen Gahagan Douglas and Jerry Voorhis many years ago in innuendos and charges that they were both favorable to communism, also unproved to this day.

Last week, the newspapers, the radio, and the TV all publicized the appearance of Richard M. Nixon as accompanist to Pearl Bailey. He also appeared and played with another group.

This would certainly seem to prove that, under the great pressures this man has been subject to of late, he doesn't know what the word "quit" means.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 25, 1964

San Rafael Hospital Foundation was planning to build a new hospital, with a heliport on its roof, on a seven-acre plot north of the Marin Civic Center which had been donated to it.

Marin Medical Society triumphed as the California Medical Association's house of delegates voted unanimously to abolish the so-called loyalty oath required of members.

20 YEARS AGO

March 25, 1964

Marin County Associated Chambers of Commerce voted to support charter government for the county.

The California Assembly approved a record $1,446,000,000 state budget.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

Say what you will about Nixon, but there's some comfort in knowing we have a President who in times of stress can keep a yo-yo going.

As Nixon travels around the country making talks, there's one thing the Washington crowd can't understand: Where do all those friendly audiences come from?

The Sunday losing order for filling stations has been lifted, and once again they'll be given equal treatment with churches.

It doesn't take much courage for a senator from an anti-Nixon state to urge the president to act courageously and resign.

Coast already funnels into Delaware Bay. The upper end of the Delaware coastline is one of the densest industrial complexes in the world. Its lower end, along the bay and the Atlantic, is cherished as the state's most valuable natural resource.

In recognition of that, the state passed a pioneer land use law three years ago that banned any new heavy industry in a coastal strip two miles deep and 115 miles long. It was acclaimed as model legislation for other states.

Now, in the legislature here, there is a concerted drive to erase the law from the books, using the energy crisis, or problem, or anyhow situation, as the excuse. Again, what happens here will be instructive for the rest of the nation.

IT IS THE OIL industry that is most urgently involved in the repeal campaign — Shell is insistent on building a new refinery along the coast. But the state chamber of commerce, the Building Trades Council and Du Pont, the state's dominant industrial giant, are leading the lobbying.

Their argument is that the ban costs jobs and keeps away industries that Faced with the possibility of impeachment and eviction from the White House for "high crimes and misdemeanors," even though the charges may be untrue, he is already preparing for another trade so that he may be able to continue to support his wife.

My one hope is that, if this great president is impeached and fired, his appearance on the night club circuit will unite the American people once again by convincing all that he is a better piano player than he was a president.

Obey Law Before Criticizing Police

In response to Patricia Crain's letter (March 18), I would like to comment on the fact that she is a nuisance and hazard to pedestrians and drivers as are all traffic violators, and her negligence in paying her fines to the community only secures that fact. If she would only do her duty, peace officers would have time to do theirs. How often people mention the "injustice" done to them by police, and rarely the overall efficient competence of the force! And how often rules apply to everyone with the exception of yourself! If Patricia Crain wants justice to prevail, maybe she should take the first step and pay her fines.

Closing Of Sycamore Could Be Dangerous

Regarding the controversial closure of a section of Sycamore Avenue in Mill Valley, it seems extremely and most vitally important to me that this long-established thoroughfare remain open for many obvious reasons but more especially in cases of emergencies.

Blockade definitely means delay and any delay in case of fire, police or ambulance can mean the thin line between life and death.

Claims Petalums Pay For Rohnert Park Growth

Rohnert Park Councilman Lou Beary speaks for "controlled growth" when he's campaigning for supervisor in Petaluma.

WILL ROGERS SAYS...

"The bad part about the whole structure of paying our congressmen is that we name a sum and give them all the same, regardless of ability."

"No other business in the world has a fixed sum to pay all their employees the same salary. If some efficiency expert would work out a scheme where each one would be paid according to his ability, I think we would save a lot of money." — March, 1924.

(All rights reserved for Will Rogers Memorial Commission. Edited by Bryan Sterling.)

1800th of its area, the state already has one of the nation's biggest refineries and petrochemical complexes and a steel plant. Seventy per cent of the oil shipped to the East Coast moves up its bay. If more refinery capacity is needed, let it be added to existing industrial sites, Peterson says.

He also spikes arguments about jobs. Delaware's unemployment rate is below the national average, he says, and highly automated refineries drive away more potential new jobs than they create.

Those are arguments that must be summoned elsewhere across the country, where the spread of industrial blight is further encouraged by the energy situation. So is Peterson's rallying cry, "Do not compromise on this issue!"

For now, the repeal bill is in committee in the state senate. After early excitement, those who respect the unique resorts and natural marshland of Delaware's coast are calmly organizing in hopes of keeping it there. And those fighting to protect the land in 49 other states must take warning from Dover that although they may win key battle after battle, the war is never won.

1974, Baltimore Sun

Lou Beary To The I-J

Then he casts the deciding vote to add yet another housing tract to Rohnert Park, which now has more than 5,000 homes approved or tentatively approved for construction. Beary's vote for development today is a vote to send Rohnert Park's children to overcrowded schools next year.

We in Petaluma have tried to limit our growth to 500 units per year. We are in the same school district as Rohnert Park, which means we as taxpayers help support each other's school needs.

Remaining Uninformed 'To Avoid Politics'

Recently I was phoning various organizations about an afternoon to meet a candidate for governor for the State of California.

The primary objective was to make available a question and answer session on issues confronting us (the public) today.

The party on the other end of the phone said, "We don't involve ourselves in politics."

Since when is seeking answers to issues that affect our lives "politics"? The person on the other end of the phone said, "We're only interested in international communications."

As an American I feel that international communication begins here (at home). Attendance at a question and answer session, regardless of party political affiliation, is not an endorsement of the candidate, but merely an expression of being informed on an aspect of governmental action.

Can't Stand The Products After The Commercials

By ROB TREICHLER

I'm afraid to try the product; the commercials make me sick. The whining husband simpering to his wife how ill he is. It appears he needs to be mothered. She assures him as she folds him tenderly and solicitously in her all-smothering arms that a miraculous new night-time liquid will solve all his problems, including sore throat, aching muscles, runny eyes, falling arches and probably the heartbreak of psoriasis and dandruff. The look on her face as she snuggles this immature ninny to her breast clearly tells the world she's stuck with a baby, but these two sickies are obviously meant for each other and I'm really glad they found one another, but I really wouldn't want to buy anything on their recommendation.

If I need a plumber at $20 per hour to fix the drip under the sink, I'll be darned if I'll want, or expect, him or her to take the better part of 15 minutes showing me how one brand of cleanser removes boysenberry stains better than the one I'm currently using. For what that lesson would cost, I'd rather buy a sample of everything in the supermarket and do my own testing.

HOW ABOUT the vacationing couple stuck in a cabin on a rainy day? She's wearing a bikini, and asks him what he'd like to do, and the best thing he can come up with is a towel absorbency and strength test. Wow! What an imagination. Whoever said our society is too sexually oriented?

And Mrs. Olson? Who can forget her? There are several South American countries whose entire fiscal structure is stabilized by the coffee given away by wonderful Mrs. Olson. There is no Mr. Olson, of course. He left in a huff after his second bankruptcy, caused by her extravagant habit of giving free groceries to all the neighbors. She worked for awhile as a social worker, but was fired early in her probationary period when she invariably recommended a change in coffee brands in all cases involving marital discord. One wonders how she'd handle the couple who conduct towel absorbency and strength tests on their vacation?

PERHAPS IF I HAD been raised with royal blood coursing through my veins, it would be different, but I feel ill at ease when someone appears at the table wearing a hat. The fact that it's a crown makes little difference, and this singular lack of taste somehow spreads to the spread being sold.

There are others. Faces that change photographically to sink drains, and glass stomachs coated internally with pink liquid... yecch! Send your nomination for the worst taste in tv commercials to this paper, care of this column. After all results are tabulated, an appropriate prize will be awarded the winner (loser?). Perhaps a rhinestone-studded water closet seat or a fur-handled bathroom plunger. And plastic reproductions of stomach pumps to the runners-up.

Impeachment Of Nixon Called For By Woodcock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, who yesterday called for President Nixon's resignation, today reversed himself and said Congress instead should move speedily with its impeachment procedures.

Woodcock and Floyd E. Smith, president of the International Association of Machinists, kicked off the second UAW-IAM Legislative Conference with sharp criticism of Nixon.

Woodcock told the conference that despite his earlier call for Nixon to step down, he now has to come to "the personal conclusion that events have gone too far for resignation."

He said he could see a set of political circumstances "where in fact if the President did follow the advice of Senator Buckley, who says he is innocent but must resign, that this problem would fester over the years and we would then have carefully cultivated by the (political) right the myth of a martyred president."

Woodcock said Congress must now do "its duty under the Constitution and proceed with the impeachment inquiry," adding it is the only way "the current constitutional crisis this country is suffering" can be ended.

Smith did not call directly for Nixon's impeachment or resignation, but accused the administration of erasing the negotiated wage gains of organized labor with a "phony, one-sided, fraudulent pretense of wage and price controls."

Smith said the lesson learned by labor should be that "collective bargaining and collective balloting are but two sides of the same coin," and he urged delegates to demand legislation to make future administrations "responsive to the needs of the American people."

Pope Beatifies German Priest

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI beatified a 17th century German priest yesterday and called for reconciliation and brotherhood among Christians.

The pontiff said the martyrdom of the Rev. Liborius Wagner by Lutheran soldiers during the 30 Years War serves as "an encouragement to reconciliation and brotherhood."

Priests from East and West Germany and 5,000 pilgrims from the West German diocese of Wurzburg, where Wagner was martyred in 1631, attended the two-hour ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica.

Two Men Hurt In Auto Crash

Two men were reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma today after being injured in a one-car accident at about 4 a.m. Saturday.

Police said a car driven by Glen J. Tremari, 19, of Bloomfield, struck two parked cars and uprooted two small trees on Bodega Avenue. The vehicle reportedly passed a police car at 90 miles an hour just before the crash.

Tremari was taken to the hospital by ambulance along with a passenger, Bradley E. Duncan, 19, of 1265 Tomales Road, Petaluma.

Money Talks

ALGIERS (UPI) — Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, arrived today for talks with President Houari Boumedienne and other Algerian leaders on the Bank's possible participation in Algeria's development problems.

Democrats Call For A Tax Cut To Spur Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats on the Congressional Joint Economic Committee today called for a $10 billion tax cut to sting the economy out of what they said was a recession, but Republicans said it would be inflationary and ill-advised.

The suggestions came in the group's annual report on the President's economic policy and suggestions to the Congress.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., speaking for the Democratic majority, accused the administration of a policy that "ignores the problem of inflation."

He said the Nixon fiscal policies would "permit the burdens of a slowdown in economic activity—including a rise in unemployment—to fall upon low and middle-income families with no effort to maintain employment or to raise the level of benefits paid to those who do become unemployed."

He said that unless steps were taken quickly to halt recession, "unemployment is likely to exceed 6 per cent throughout the second half of this year."

Republicans on the committee, headed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., issued a minority report citing inflation as the worst problem facing the nation this year.

"We believe fiscal stimulus in the form of a tax cut would be ill-advised and inflationary at this time," Javits said.

The Republicans said contingency plans for a greater stimulus of the economy should be held in reserve and implemented "if there are no signs of an economic upturn, especially in housing and automobiles, by the late second quarter of this year."

The joint Committee's report said a permanent institution should be established to administer wage-price policies on a largely voluntary basis.

"This institution should focus on specific private and public activities that stimulate price increases, should have the authority to delay prospective increases and to hold hearings to investigate them, and should include the office of a price ombudsman."

The report said Nixon should have limited standby authority to reimpose wage and price controls on particular sectors of the economy.

The majority also called for:

Creating a permanent public service employment program that would be activated whenever total national unemployment exceeds 4-1/2 per cent.

Eliminating the percentage depletion and the current expenses of intangible drilling costs, both domestically and abroad, in the oil industry. Royalties paid foreign governments would be credited as business expenses and not taxes.

Eliminating use of the defense budget to stimulate the economy.

Permitting the dollar to continue to float in exchange markets and abolishing the official price of gold.

Aspin Hits Cost Of 'Grade Creep'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the upgrading of Civil Service workers at the Pentagon is costing American taxpayers $400 million a year.

Aspin, frequent critic of the Defense Department, said this figure was the conclusion of a Library of Congress study made at his request.

The library told Aspin that "it must be emphasized that these figures represent crude averages and only approximate the amount actually spent ... according to our calculations, therefore, grade creep would currently account for an increase in the annual DOD civilian payroll of approximately $400 million."

Milk Producers Help To Politicians Bared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Post says several Midwestern Democrats had their campaign mailing lists paid for in 1972 by secret contributions from the Associated Milk Producers, Inc.

The Post said yesterday that the Texas-based outfit, the nation's largest dairy cooperative, spent $137,000 in corporate funds on a number of campaigns, including the presidential bid of Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

The money apparently went to compile computerized mailing lists with the largest single contribution going to the Iowa Democratic party for a proposed presidential try by Sen. Harold Hughes, who said he declined it.

Money also went to governors David Hall of Oklahoma and Robert Docking of Kansas and Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota.

Hall and Docking never got their lists because their respective state parties didn't pay their share of the costs, The Post said. Humphrey and Abourezk denied knowledge of the contributions.

The AMPI is among several dairy groups accused of giving $427,500 to President Nixon's reelection campaign in return for administration decisions to raise price supports for milk.

Board To View Transit Deficits

A proposal that future increases in the Golden Gate Bridge District's transit operating deficits be financed first by increasing fares will be considered by district directors Thursday.

The meeting of the finance-auditing committee is at 10 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

Board president Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco made the proposal earlier this month, and referred it to the committee for review. The full board will meet at 10 a.m. Friday.

"Grade creep" is a bureaucratic term for the tendency to upgrade the job status of "GS" employees. Aspin said the library's study showed that 10.3 per cent of the Pentagon's civilian employees are graded GS-13 or higher, compared with 8.2 per cent in 1964.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger told Congress earlier "as with other federal agencies, the Department of Defense has over the long term experienced a persistent rise in the average grade of civilian position."

Aspin said yesterday unless the Pentagon "reduces its costs, Congress should cut the cost through a specific amendment to the defense budget."

Tree Cutting Planned To Rid Area Of Birds

GRACEHAM, Md. (UPI) — Edgar Emrich vowed last night he will chop down onethird of his pine grove where most of the millions of birds have been roosting each night since December, saying: "The birdlovers and birdwatchers can have their day, today, but those birds won't roost here next year."

The tree farmer favors extermination of the birds, but added this will not be done. Emrich's statement came after last night's third major bombardment of the huge flock of grackles, redwing blackbirds and starlings by experts using amplified bird distress calls, fireworks and propane cannon fire in efforts to drive the birds off.

The expert assault, including up to 110 county, state and federal officials as well as Emrich, his neighbors' and citizen volunteers, was launched Friday night as the birds came in to roost after sunset. There was limited success, and the attack was intensified Saturday night — with greater success, although many of the birds driven away from Emrich's grove roosted in groves of trees in nearby communities.

Last night's effort began at 7 p.m., until 8:45 p.m., with increased success "a marked reduction" from Saturday night, Emrich said, but adding that Dr. Kenneth L. Crawford, Maryland state veterinarian and director of the bird-ridding project, warned large numbers might sneak back in during the rest of the night, as they did Saturday night.

Emrich said although he was encouraged by last night's intensified effort he has decided to chop down 15 or 20 acres of the 60-acre pine grove, have the trees shredded, and stumps on the acreage pulled out.

The sector to be cleared is the thickest portion of the grove, and the area where the majority of as many as 10 million birds chose to roost. Emrich raises the pine trees for sale—some of them for commercial use, and the balance sold as Christmas trees. By cutting the trees, he is cutting salable future income since the shredded trees will bring him no financial return — only the expense of cutting them down, and having them disposed of. "But I don't care about that any more," he said, "I just want to get rid of the birds."

Emrich said last night he personally favors an extermination program, a chemical spray which after spraying over the area would destroy the birds. A natural oily protective coating, making them die from exposure to the elements.

However, he said extermination is strongly opposed by ornithologists and he has had telephone calls from "all over the country" from persons urging him not to destroy the birds.

Since extermination is not being pursued, he decided to chop down the most troublesome sector of the grove of trees.

Emrich said the heavy roosting in the Graceham area is not new, but he was told that there is only one other part of the U.S. afflicted with such a heavy infestation of winter flocks—an area of Kentucky, "Hyattstown, Ky. is the name, I think."

"I'm told that in this area of Kentucky heavy flocks, like here, have been roosting in certain groves for about six years."

Emrich said that as long as the weather remains cool at night in Graceham, his unwanted flock will not migrate further northward.

The trees he plans to cut down, beginning about Wednesday, are 16 years old.

Anne Visits Germany Under Guard

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne, who has never been out of the sight of armed guards since an attempt to kidnap her Wednesday night, left for West Germany today under cover of one of the biggest security operations ever undertaken there.

Before she left she visited her mother, Queen Elizabeth II, at Windsor castle for the first time since the kidnap attempt.

The Princess will spend three days with the 14-20th Hussars of the British Rhine army. She is commander-in-chief of the unit.

Hours before the Princess arrived at the airport it was being patrolled by dozens of uniformed and plainclothes police, guard dogs and police with two-way radios and on motorcycles. All roads were guarded and motorists checked.

This followed a "red alert" around her home at Sandhurst this morning after children found several old explosive detonators not far from the house.

The children discovered the detonators, which were badly deteriorated, while playing in thick undergrowth at the royal military academy about 300 yards from the home of Anne and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips.

Anne could be the first member of the immediate royal family to testify in court in a criminal case in this century if the man who allegedly tried to kidnap her goes on trial, legal sources said today.

They said the testimony of the daughter of Queen Elizabeth could be vital both to the prosecution and to the defense—to the prosecution as the intended victim who saw it all happen, to the defense in support of a possible plea to a lesser charge than attempted murder.

Only Queen Elizabeth among Britons cannot be summoned in a court case. While this exemption theoretically does not apply basis, further recovery techniques to sort out various metals, glass, rubber, and other materials for recycling could have a bonus energy saving equal to 30 million barrels of oil a year, Darnay estimates.

New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, San Diego, and other cities are seriously considering adapting present coal-fired generating plants to such use and could make the transition within a year.

Two other projects supported by EPA, now under construction in Baltimore and San Diego, would convert solid waste into a combustible gas or oil.

Waste is a big energy resource, EPA officials stress. "A nation that runs on oil can't afford to waste its garbage," they are sloganizing.

Watershed Leader Will Be Named

A new supervisor of land management and watershed patrol will be named by directors of the Marin Municipal Water District at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in district offices, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera.

Directors also will discuss changing the color of district vehicles to white from dark green for safety reason.

to royalty below the sovereign, in practice King Edward VII, as Prince of Wales, was the last member of the immediate blood royal actually to take the stand in court proceedings—a divorce case in 1870 and a notorious baccarat gambling scandal thereafter.

Scotland Yard has charged Ian Ball, 26, a man of many aliases, with the attempted murder of the Princess' bodyguard, detective inspector James Beaton, one of four men gunned down when a royal limousine carrying Anne and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, was ambushed near Buckingham Palace Wednesday night.

Ball was held without bail for a week in magistrate's Court last Thursday to give police time to search, as they said, for possible associates and to examine the source of "large sums" of money in his bank account. He is whiling away the time in Brixton Prison reading an Agatha Christie murder novel he took from the prison library along with the poems of Thomas Hardy.

If Ball pleads guilty when he is finally arraigned in the famous central criminal court, Old Bailey, there might be no need for what shapes up as one of the more sensational trials of recent years.

Cronkite Claims Attack On Press

CHICAGO (UPI) — Newscaster Walter Cronkite has accused the Nixon administration of an attempt to undermine the press, despite its constitutional guarantees of freedom.

Cronkite said yesterday the Constitution gives the press a "constitutional duty...to keep all branches of government under critical scrutiny."

Yet, Cronkite said in apparent reference to the Washington Post, "A newspaper which attempts to expose the scheme of a clique to perpetuate itself in power by subverting our national elections is accused by the White House of 'shabby journalism,' 'character assassination' and 'innuendo'."

The CBS newsmen said television news organizations' reports of "events as they see them are denounced by the President of the United States as 'outrageous,' 'vicious,' and 'distorted.'"

"Reporters with information from inside the government are investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Their phones are tapped or their notes are subpoenaed or their tax returns get extraordinary attention."

U. S. Nuclear Reactors Seen As Reasonably Safe

By DAVID F. SALISBURY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Nuclear reactors as now operated in the United States are reasonably safe.

This is the overwhelming response of reactor safety experts to a Monitor survey.

At the same time, the reactor program is seen as a highly complex and technical research effort beset by lack of communication, well-meaning but inexperienced intervenors, and inept management by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) — all of which has fostered a distorted public view of reactor safety.

Confidential questionnaires were sent to 153 such experts in industry, national laboratories, nuclear research organizations, universities, and the AEC. Forty-six, or 30 percent, replied.

The questionnaires were sent to those who have presented papers on reactor safety at past American Nuclear Society meetings and expert testifiers at recent AEC hearings on reactor safety.

With only two dissenters, these experts feel that reactors are safe. Yet, when asked if this safety has been "scientifically proved," a majority of respondents answer no.

"It will never be possible to prove that a reactor is absolutely safe," says one professor. "Absolute safety presumes the infallibility of the designers... We must deal with the risks created by the reactor relative to other risks in an industrial society."

One of the focal points of the reactor-safety issue that has swept the country centers on the "conservatism" in reactor design.

Suppose an engineer is asked to design a bridge but doesn't have any information about the winds in that area. It is common practice for him to choose a speed he feels will never be reached and engineer the bridge so it will withstand the resulting forces. This is "conservatism."

To a certain extent this is how nuclear reactors have been designed. In a reactor, many different factors that are precisely known enter in.

Although reactors have been developed for more than 25 years, technical experience is still limited when compared with building bridges.

However, safety experts who work for the reactor manufacturers feel without exception that the overall safety margin has remained the same or increased. Most of those in the national labs and the universities agree, although three maintain that this margin is either unknown or unknowable.

Doubts about the conservatism of reactor design underlie the actions of the Union of Concerned Scientists (UCS) and National Intervenor, who have contested in the courts the spread of nuclear power.

Because some individuals have expressed their reservations about specific aspects of reactor safety, and experts have disagreed on the values of specific uncertainties in reactor design, the National Intervenor has called repeatedly for a moratorium on construction of nuclear-power plants.

Although there was considerable disagreement among the 46 safety experts about how well these uncertainties are known, 95 per cent feel that they are taken into account in the operating levels of present commercial reactors.

"Men have built bridges, aqueducts, and pyramids since early times without knowing material properties (exactly)," writes a reactor-accident analyst. "Therefore, it is possible to design conservatively without knowing exactly how conservative."

The National Intervenor has alleged that those safety experts who have expressed reservations publicly are just the tip of an iceberg, and that many others with reservations remain silent because of pressure or fear of losing their jobs.

It was for this reason the Monitor conducted its confidential survey. In this way, safety researchers could respond without fearing for their jobs.

Although the survey's results contradict the critics' conclusion that reactors are unsafe, certain of their views are substantiated.

When asked whether the AEC or their employers had suppressed or biased safety information, most industry scientists and engineers — several indignantly — replied that they knew of no such thing.

Yet one industry, one academic, and three respondents from the national laboratories claimed personal knowledge of such activity. Seven reported that they were aware of information that has been biased to make it appear safer.

One example cited is the termination of an Oak Ridge National Laboratory safety program with the unofficial explanation, by an AEC official, that it was "finding more problems than it was solving." Others include cases where values in scientific reports were changed. Westinghouse and General Electric were accused of biasing test data.

Of course, these allegations are not proof. They must be balanced against replies like those from a university professor who has done safety research for all the major companies except General Electric. He reports that the makers always have incorporated his results even when they were unfavorable.

The industrial researchers tend to brush aside these reports and all reservations about reactor safety as coming from individuals outside the "mainstream," who are unknowledgeable and probably incompetent.

But the preceding responses indicate that misunderstanding and poor communications exist between the reactor industries, national labs, and the AEC.

Interestingly enough, 48 per cent of the industry safety experts feel that there has not been enough independent confirmation of their work. A majority of those in the labs and the universities agreed.

When focusing on the job the Atomic Energy Commission has done in managing reactor safety research, the replies are damning. Some 75 per cent of the academics and 67 per cent of those at the national laboratories feel the AEC has submerged safety for development.

While this is not true of industry experts, one-third feel the AEC has been ineffectual. Many, however, point out that the commission's latest reorganization would be helpful in the safety field.

Pennsy Asking Rail Inclusion

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Penn Central Railroad is formally applying to a federal court for inclusion in the new northeastern rail system created by Congress.

Trustees were expected to tell U.S. District Judge John P. Fullam today that prospects for the carrier's survival were dim unless it is included in the system. Fullam is overseeing operations of the railroad under the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Ernest V. Varallis, assistant vice president of budget planning for the trustees, said recently that a positive cash flow would not be possible until at least 1977, even with "maximum potential revenue projections."

Bus Tragedy

RAWALPINDI (UPI) — A bus carrying 38 persons spun off a sharp mountain curve and plunged 1,500 feet into a ravine yesterday, killing most of those aboard, a government spokesman said today.

A Closer Look Is Given To The Trash Supplies

By MONTY HOYT
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON — The energy crisis is causing municipal and federal officials to take new stock in an offbeat but plentiful source of fuel:

Trash.

Solid wastes are being burned and converted into energy to generate electricity on a demonstration basis in St. Louis. So appealing is this approach in the wake of the oil shortages that at least 20 major cities are investigating it seriously.

"Solid waste represents a new, untapped resource. Our large urban areas where solid waste can be profitably used as fuel generate about 90 million tons of residential and commercial solid waste each year," says Arsen Darnay, Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) deputy assistant administrator for solid waste management programs. This resource, 70 to 80 per cent of which can be burned, would have an energy recovery the equivalent of 150 million barrels of oil a year.

"That's enough energy to light our homes and commercial establishments all year long," Darnay emphasizes. It is equivalent to 40 per cent of the crude oil imports from the Midwest or 27 per cent of the pipeline oil expected from Alaska.

Besides saving valuable fossil fuels (oil, coal, and natural gas), burning solid waste for electricity also produces other major benefits:

Other materials, such as steel, aluminum, and glass can be recovered and recycled, saving even more energy. (It takes more energy to manufacture products from virgin raw materials — which have to be mined, shipped, and refined — than it does to recycle already-processed materials, EPA officials maintain.)

Landfill space needed for solid waste disposal is greatly reduced. Only 5 to 10 per cent of the original volume is left as a residue in the current recovery systems.

And trash-burning plants cause much less air and water pollution than conventional coal-fired plants.

In the St. Louis tests, which have been going for more than a year, residential refuse is shredded and separated into combustible and noncombustible materials. The combustible wastes are then burned by the Union Electric Co. along with pulverized coal in a steam electric-generating boiler. The waste fuel replaces 15 to 20 per cent of the coal burned in each boiler, and when operating at full capacity will generate about 5 per cent of the electricity for the St. Louis area.

Tests to be released next month by EPA will answer the crucial questions of air and water pollution. But it is expected pollution levels at the demonstration plant will be no higher than conventional oil-fired plants, and certainly less than coal-fired generators.

The noncombustible portions in the test operation are processed to remove magnetic metals, which are then recycled.

If practiced on a nationwide

Barbara Ellen McNulty Weds Kenneth Siegler

Barbara Ellen McNulty and Kenneth Robert Siegler, both of San Rafael, exchanged vows Saturday afternoon at a ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church in Sausalito.

Mrs. Brian McNulty of San Jose was matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and Donald Murray Jr. of San Rafael performed best man duties for the bridegroom.

Ushers were Brian McNulty, Barbara's brother, and Michael McVey of Novato.

The reception followed at Peacock Gap Country Club and the couple are on a wedding trip to San Diego. They will live in San Rafael.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McNulty of Alameda, formerly of West Haven, Conn. She is a graduate of West Haven High School and Southern Connecticut State College. She spent her junior year at L'Institut Catholique in Paris. Barbara is employed with Wellco Data Corp. in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Siegler of San Rafael are parents of Kenneth, who is the grandson of Mrs. Ann Schmidt of Palo Alto.

Kenneth is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin and also is employed with Wellco.

Co-Ed Volleyball Slated At School

The Petaluma Recreation Department will sponsor co-ed volleyball beginning tomorrow from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Kenilworth Junior High School Gymnasium.

Equipment and supervision will be provided by the recreation department, according to Jim Raymond, recreation director.

Scholarships Given For Ballet Study

Two Petaluma teen-agers have been awarded summer scholarships to study at the San Francisco Ballet School, according to Harold F. Christensen, director of the school.

Stacy Keith, 15, and Carrie Curtis, 13, will attend 10 classes a week for six weeks to learn techniques in character, point work and pas de deux.

Stacy, who has been studying ballet for three years, is the daughter of Teresia and Charles Keith. Carrie has been studying for three years and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Curtis. Both are students at the Petaluma School of Ballet and have performed throughout Sonoma County in annual productions of "Nutcracker," and other ballet programs.

Another Petaluma ballet school student, 14-year-old Jonathan Miller of San Francisco, has been chosen to perform in the American Ballet Theater's "Swan Lake" in San Francisco.

Mary Lou Jacobson, business woman, mother of three children and chairman of the San Rafael Centennial's costume committee is doing her best to get everyone turned out in bustles and bows or boots and bowlers for the city's week-long birthday party in May.

Since her appointment as chairman last fall her Palm Avenue brown shingle home has been transformed into a costume house as the woman on her committee come and go with brie-a-brac, laces and ruffles they are turning into costumes for the centennial observance.

To demonstrate simple and inexpensive costuming methods she has researched and compiled 14-page booklet (1,300 copies have been distributed) and appeared before women's groups and staffs of a downtown bank and women's shop to explain how to convert today's fashions and sewing patterns into 19th Century designs.

She has also done everything from costume and set design to directing, script writing and choreography for a centennial-sponsored fashion show which will give the first of three performances tomorrow at noon at the St. Raphael's Mother's Guild Salad Bowl Luncheon at St. Raphael's auditorium.

The show will also be presented May 22 at the Senior Citizens award luncheon at the Civic Center and May 24 at the centennial's civic leaders luncheon at Dominican College.

THE SHOW, she explained is a pot-pourri of modern and oldtime music, a "dibble and dab of history" and a parade of fashions dating from today's women's liberation back to 1874, the year of San Rafael's incorporation.

Some of the outfits in the show are authentic antiques, including the century-old black silk gown and black leather shoes to be worn by Mrs. John W. Castle, member of the costume committee who borrowed the ensemble from a friend in Sonoma County.

Others, such as the "Gibson girl" outfit modeled by committee member Mrs. Larry L. Qvistgaard, were made especially for the show.

Mrs. Qvistgaard said she made her two-piece suit with its "leg-o-mutton sleeves" from "upholstery fabric from the 1930s found in my mother-in-law's attic."

A wedding gown — an exquisite example of 19th Century braid, lace, bustle, pearls and beading — to be worn by Mrs. Jack G. Nixon in the 1874 tableau, was made by Mrs. Jacobson from 1963 wedding dress purchased in a Mill Valley salvage shop for $3.

ANY A-LINE skirt can be turned into a bustled overskirt, she explained, holding up her own centennial day dress that she made from a discarded Philippine linen tablecloth purchased for 25 cents at a thrift shop and four curtains bought for $1 at Goodwill Industries.

After pulling the overskirt up into a flounce in the back, all that is needed, Mrs. Jacobson said, is to make a slim, straight skirt to be worn underneath the bustle. The garment is then trimmed with the bows, ruffles and braiding popular acentury ago.

Women's blouses and turtle-neck tops can be turned into 19th Century shirtwaists simply by turning under the collars, she said, and trimming necklines and front panels with ruffles or braiding.

A matching skirt can be made from a bed sheet trimmed to match the top, she added, showing one she had made.

For the men, a contemporary business suit, preferably a single-breasted jacket with three buttons, can be converted by merely trimming the lapels and

A friend of ours recently spent the evening up on Broadway, instead of driving all the way to San Rafael where we are. It cost him $3.00 for parking, $51.87 for dinner, $48.50 for drinks, tips, and cover charge at a topless night club, and $75,000 plus his lawyer's fee of $3,500 for his subsequent divorce. ## HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Now-Slender Goose Considers Getting Even With The Gander

DEAR HELEN:

All through my two pregnancies and afterwards when I was overweight and dowdy-looking, my husband went out on me. I loved him a lot — then — and I was terribly hurt.

Now that I've slimmed down and am working part-time, I look better than before marriage and, frankly, I'm getting offers that are hard to refuse. I keep thinking, why not, if only to pay Jerry back?

Meanwhile Jerry has added about 50 pounds and girls don't throw themselves at him anymore. Suddenly he's seeing me as desirable, but I remember all those lonely nights and mean words comparing me to his girlfriends.

Since there's not much we share except the kids, give me a good reason why I shouldn't do to my husband as he did to me? — WANTING TO GET EVEN

DEAR WTGE:

I can give two good reasons: your children!

They don't deserve fighting, resentful, unfaithful parents whose attitudes toward marriage — and each other — couldn't help but make family life miserable.

Getting even for past hurts won't solve anything. If you can't revive love, then don't prolong the dying; and if you "share nothing but the kids" anymore, you'd better share them separately.

(And if, as I suspect, my words rile you, perhaps love isn't as dead as you think. Honest reappraisal and a lot of effort — including everything from your forgiveness to a diet for Jerry — might still bring back the spark.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I thought my ladyfriend and I were getting along great, but the other night I noted a computer dating service ad on her desk. Not only that, but the "personality inventory" questions were all filled out, as if she was about to mail it in.

Should I ask her about this, or would she resent my snooping?

I can't understand why she'd do such a thing when she ought to know I love her (I'm reticent about expressing myself). — WIDOWER

DEAR WIDOWER:

There's no harm in asking. It might lead to a more "expressive" relationship, which may even be the reason your ladyfriend left the dating service ad open on her desk. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Hooray for the landlady who prohibited smokers in her rentals! I'd like to join her.

This week we are cleaning an apartment that we rented to chain smokers, and we are again amazed at the filthy mess they can make. Walls and furniture were covered with a nicotine residue that made cleaning and painting much more difficult. "Beige" walls become "off-white" after they are scrubbed.

And the smell! The stale smoke odor turns potential renters away.

Fire damage is another threat to landlords. Only last week the building behind us was damaged and one person

Spring, that beautiful romantic season, is now with us! Even a new spring outfit charms us in a special way. Soon, when you go shopping for one, you will hate any overweight you have.

Here I am again with help for those who are following my eight-week Beauty Improvement Plan. Let me call your attention to the importance of food preparation.

Sometimes the way we say something is as important as what we say and often the manner in which we cook food is as important as the food itself. The most innocent items can be turned into calorie horrors.

For instance think of the potato which is a valuable item on any diet and one we all like. However many reducers avoid it like poison. The truth is a medium size baked potato has only about 90 calories and is delicious with chopped chives or celery salt. A small dot of butter can even be allowed.

BUT, 10 French fries (each two inches long) give you about 160 calories and potatoes mashed with lots of butter and some cream — forget it. An innocent medium size apple has about 80 calories but the story changes if you bake it with two tablespoons of brown sugar. This will sabotage you with 184 calories.

The fat on meat zooms the calorie count. Use a roasting rack so it drips into a pan while cooking. When possible cook a roast or make a stew the day before you are going to serve it. After a night in the refrigerator the fat will harden and you can remove it. The general rule is to bake or broil. Also be sure to remember how those tricky additions add up.

THOSE OF you who started the plan when it first appeared

THIS EXERCISE is for slimming the calf. Sit on the edge of a stool and hold onto the sides of it with your hands as you extend your legs straight out in front of you with stiff knees. Legs should be at right angles to your body. Curl your toes under. Repeat eight times. Take the same position but this time raise only one leg and pull your toe back toward your body as far as you can. Relax and do this eight times. Do the same thing with the other.

are nearing the end of this course. Don't stop just before reaching the finish line. If some of you planned to start but failed to do so, begin now. You still have time to lose between 15 and 20 pounds before the season for lighter, more colorful but more revealing clothes. Next Monday: Keep good eating habits you have just developed.

Petaluman Commissioned For Cuban Patriot's Bust

A Petaluma sculptor has been commissioned by the San Francisco Cubans' Club to produce a bust of Cuban patriot Jose Marti for display in the City of San Francisco.

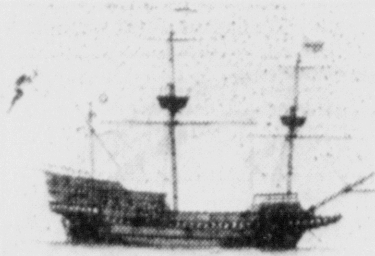

Cuba was a Spanish possession. Modern Cuban organizations, she said, are making efforts to have statues of him placed in every major American city.

Rosa Estebanez was asked by Georges Tertrou, president of Circulo Cubano, to cast a marble bust.

Marti, explained Mrs. Estebanez, was an intellectual and patriot during the time when cuffs with dark colored upholstery gimp (braid) that sells for 19 or 20 cents a yard, she said.

An old-fashioned winged collar effect for the men can be achieved, she added, by turning up the collar points of a white shirt and holding them in place with either a string tie secured by a ring or a scarf folded into a cravat and decorated with a stickpin, earring or button sewn into place.

TURLOCK-BORN Mary Lou Jacobson's flair for fashion can be traced to her childhood in San Francisco. Bedridden for three years with rheumatic fever, she learned to make doll clothes and hats for her fashion model mother.

Later under the tutelage of her maternal grandmother, who had supported her own young family during the depression working as a tailor, Mrs. Jacobson learned to use a commercial sewing machine as an 11-year old in her family's Portola District dry-cleaning shop.

While attending high school, she said "I lied about my age" (she was 15) to get a job selling yardage at the J. C. Penney store at Fifth and Market streets. There she was introduced to set design by selling "bolts and bolts" of yardage to set designers from the Geary Theater.

Later she majored in education and earned a teaching credential at San Francisco State College. Her interest in costuming was heightened some 11 years ago when she began collecting costumes as a hobby after finding a handmade jet and bugle beaded shawl and other odds and ends for 25 cents at a barn sale in Petaluma.

Her costume collection now numbers 50, and includes a jeweled flapper's dress from the 1920s bought at a Del Mesa garage sale for $2.25. She estimates it would sell for $400 today.

Her hobby was turned to practical use during the 1970 Coleman School Fair when she put on two fashion shows for the parents. Later she did another show for a San Rafael Parent-Teacher Council luncheon, tracing fashion history back to Civil War days.

She did her first "stint of drawing designs" while working on the San Rafael High School production of "Can Can" last year. Since the show was set in the years 1888-90, she said, it gave her a head start on research for this year's centennial assignment.

Working at least 10 hours a week "sewing late into the night," she is making centennial costumes for family, friends, and with her committee is working on all the ensembles to be worn centennial week by program chairman Jean Kelly. Mrs. Jacobson also runs the property management business of her late husband, Edward D. Jacobson, collecting rents and "fixing kitchens."

Storm Windows, Popcorn Have Their Saving Ways

By ROBERT EDWARDS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

I know all about storm windows saving heat during winter weather, but is the expense really worth the cost in relation to a savings account, for example? — E. G.

Storm windows pay off both in money and in comfort. Since your question specifically asks about investment return, let's look there first. Assuming you buy and install storm windows at reasonable cost (stay clear of door-to-door storm-window salesmen), you can get your money back in six years or less — after allowing interest costs of 6 per cent. This amounts to an annual dividend of about 17 per cent if you live where winter temperatures average lower than 45 degrees.

The kind of fuel you burn, efficiency of your furnace, and other factors affect costs too, of course. But, storm windows will pay you a better return than money deposited in a savings bank.

MY CAR is three years old and I intend to drive it for another three or four years. I have read about the new markings on oil cans indicating SE oil as the top grade. Should I be using SE oil to extend the life of my engine? — H. T.

The SE markings on oil cans are several years old. SE (for Service Extreme) motor oils are intended mainly to comply with warranty requirements for 1972 and later cars. SE oils contain additives to keep oil from deteriorating under extreme and continued engine heat. You might switch to SE oils, but only if you do a lot of sustained high speed driving — not likely these days. The SD oils (for Service Deluxe) will save you about 20 cents per can and will still afford excellent engine protection for normal driving — including freeway driving at 55 m.p.h.

BETWEEN MY kids with appetites the size of an elephant looking for something to eat after school and my husband who yelps about the food bill, I'm lost! If I buy potato chips and snack crackers to keep the kids away from sugar, I spend nearly $2 a week extra. What's a mother to do? — Mrs. T. O.

Snacks after school can wreck any food spending plan unless you take steps to control spending but don't control eating. Here are three ideas:

Insist that teenagers spend their own money if they want exotic chips, crackers, or other nibblings.

Suggest they pop corn instead of eating chips. But, don't rush out and buy a new electric popper. Teach them how to use a common saucepan with a

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

A Cruel Kind Of Punishment

Under California's "Indeterminate sentence law," felons are sentenced for a range of time: one to five, five to life, two to ten, etc. These are state prison sentences and not fixed times such as usually imposed in county jail sentences. The felon may also be put on probation or merely fined.

When an indeterminate sentence is imposed, the Adult Authority, a board of prominent citizens appointed by the governor, or the Women's Board (in the case of women felons) will then decide how long the prisoner will serve. These boards can review his record and decide when the prisoner is to be released. The prisoner is evaluated each year to determine whether he is ready to return to society. In many instances the exact sentence is not determined for several years.

The Adult Authority has the power to determine and re-determine a sentence. When it holds the hearing on a prisoner, 30 days notice is sent to the judge of the court who tried and convicted the person, in addition to the DA, the Sheriff, police or investigating body from the prisoner's county. The prisoner is not permitted the representation of a lawyer at the hearing.

The discretion of the Adult Authority is rarely overturned. Seldom is the decision of the legislature in setting the range for sentencing challenged successfully in court.

In a recent case Joe Hudson was twice convicted of indecent exposure. A first offense is a misdemeanor, punishable by a brief jail sentence or a fine. A second offense becomes a felony and the person may be sentenced to prison for one year to life.

Joe did five years. Each time the authority refused to parole him or fix the length of sentence, even though they agreed that he was not mentally disordered. He challenged the law, claiming that a possible life sentence for the offense was "cruel and unusual," disproportionate to the seriousness of the offense. The court agreed. Joe did not cause physical harm to anyone nor was he a danger to society.

The prohibition against "cruel and unusual punishment" does more than prevent the use of punishment that is excessively severe, and also prevents punishment disproportionate to the offense committed.

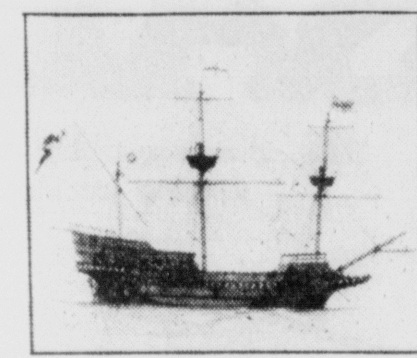

A mandatory sentence of 20 year for selling marijuana was held to be too severe. Life sentences to the young offender guilty of assault were deemed cruel and unusual.

Cost Of College Goes Up Again

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — The college student living on campus in the coming academic year will have to pay more money than ever before for an education, the College Entrance Examination Board said yesterday.

In a report based on a national survey, the board said it will cost $4,039 for a student to attend the average four-year private college, 9.4 per cent more than this year. Resident students at four-year public colleges and universities will have to spend less money—$2,400.

The board said Princeton University will be one of the most expensive schools to attend at $5,825. It will cost $5,700 to go to Harvard. Among the least expensive will be Georgia Tech, $2,350 for tuition, fees, room and board.

MUSIC REVIEW

Flutist Impressive In College Concert

By VERA M. OLMSTED

An impressive performance of two major contemporary works climaxed the concert presented by flutist Patrick Hurtado last night in the College of Marin Choral Hall.

Hurtado, a native Marinite, has performed both locally and in New York. He projects a strong, full tone, particularly impressive in the lower register, and has remarkable breath control. He is an aggressive performer, but balances this quality with solid musicianship which is evident in his sensitive handling of articulation and phrasing.

Hurtado was aided in the success of the recital by his accompanist and full musical partner, Barbara Baum, who capably dispatched the technical demands of the music.

The first half of the program was not as satisfactory as the second. The G minor Sonata for Flute and Clavier by J. S. Bach suffered from an imbalance between the piano and flute, which was later rectified when the piano lid was lowered and Hurtado stepped well forward.

Hurtado's tone was somewhat unfocused and breathy, but his intonation, as throughout the evening, was cleanly on pitch.

W. A. Mozart's slight but charming Sonata in C Major for Flute and Harpsichord, composed when the composer was 8, was given an ebullient reading, but the next work, a flute transcription of one of Domenico Scarlatti's harpsichord sonatas did not fare as well.

The problem lay in the use of a piano instead of a harpsichord for the accompaniment, as the piano gave an overly heavy and romantic feeling to this lacy Baroque piece.

Scarlatti's sonatas are profoundly idiomatic for the harpsichord, utilizing every resource of the instrument, and do not readily translate to the piano.

Two striking contemporary works made up the second half of the program. Sergei Prokofiev's difficult but beautiful Sonata in D Major for Flute and Piano (1943), exploits the possibilities of both instruments, and drew a breathtaking performance from Mrs. Baum and Hurtado.

Most of Prokofiev's well-known characteristics appear here — diatonic melodic phrases, unexpected dissonances, disjointed harmonies, displaced

Worse Recession Is Seen In '76

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh National Bank warned today that a mild recession now gripping the nation likely will become more severe in 1976, largely because of the expected failure to meet increased demand for products.

"It is improbable that the economic growth that may be resumed later this year will be sustainable through 1975," said the report by PNB economists.

More likely, said vice chairman Edwin H. Yeo III, was an economy "where productive capacity fails to keep with demand growth, fed by money wage increases, recovery in today's weak sectors (auto sales and housing construction), fiscal and monetary stimulation and inflationary expectations."

Ballet Concert Set April 20

The Marin Civic Ballet will present its spring concert at 8 p.m. on April 20 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The performance will include: "Gift to be Simple," choreographed by Norbert Vesak; Scorpion, by James Pierall; "Ukiyo E," by Alice La Mar; "Vinas," by Marc Wilde; "Peasant Pas de Deux," by Petipa, and Golden Moments, by Leona Norman.

TWA ANNOUNCES A PRICE DECREASE. $125 TO THE EAST COAST.

Some airlines may be cutting services. But at TWA we're cutting prices.

Thanks to our new Demand Scheduled* Service, which starts July 8, you can fly to the East Coast for up to 37% less than the regular Coach fare.

And here's all you have to do.

At least 90 days before you want to leave you must reserve a seat on one of our departing flights.

Give us a twenty dollar deposit. $40 if you're going round trip. (Refundable only if you cancel more than 90 days before departure.)

And the balance at least 45 days before your departure date.

Then relax.

A month before you're ready to leave, TWA will mail you your ticket plus all the information you'll need.

If you want, you can even charge your trip on your TWA Getaway** Card or on any other major credit card.

Now, you should know your flight may make stops. And you're not allowed to stop over en route.

But you should also know that the plane you'll be traveling on will be a regularly scheduled TWA jet. Not a charter flight. And on meal flights, you'll get a meal and beverage. Plus a movie* at a small charge on movie flights.

What's more, you'll be able to stay for as short as a day. Or as long as a year.

Because there are no minimum or maximum stay restrictions.

In other words, you'll be getting all the services a regular Coach passenger gets. Only you'll be getting them for a lot less.

Needless to say, in times like these an offer like this is going to be booked pretty quick. And we only have a limited number of daily seats available for this service.

Once they're booked, that's it.

So call your Travel Agent now.

Or TWA at 863-2120.

Roth Rated Second In ADA Poll

William Matson Roth of Ross is the second choice for the Democratic nomination for governor among members of the Americans for Democratic Action's Northern California chapter.

According to a poll of its 700 members, the chapter reported, Rep. Jerome R. Waldie of Contra Costa County was first with 51.2 per cent of the votes and Roth second with 23.5 per cent.

Others were Secretary of State Edmond G. Brown Jr. with 16.6 per cent, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys with 4.5 per cent and San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto with 4.2 per cent. The poll was made before the entry in the race by Los Angeles County Supervisor Baxter Ward, whose candidacy, the chapter said, "was a well kept secret."

The organization's Southern California chapter gave Waldie 46 per cent. Brown was second with 30 per cent.

Roth yesterday demanded a reversal of last week's state approval of a 10-cent increase in the price of a gallon of milk, and urged the Legislature to investigate the milk industry. He said the increase was granted "without adequate hearings of consumer questions and complaints about milk prices."

WORNUM — A party to celebrate the opening of a unique campaign headquarters for Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. Sunday in his 1916 caboose at the Morgan Rail Car yard, 15 East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae. Cheese, wine and live music will be provided. The yard is just northeast of the Greenbrae freeway interchange.

FELSON — Jack R. Felson of Forest Knolls, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has assured labor leaders that renewing and protecting the environment "could be the major source of jobs during the next 10 years if labor and conservation will work together." Expansion of mass transit alone could create 500,000 to one million new jobs in the next decade, he said.

Passenger Hurt As Truck Rolls

A Petaluma man was under intensive care at Hillcrest Hospital today after receiving head injuries at about 7 p.m. yesterday in a crash on Old Adobe Road.

The injured man, Gary Hutchins, 27, of 1565 Old Adobe Road, was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by Gary J. Parella, 28, of 520 Corona Road, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said the vehicle rolled after its right rear tire went flat. Parella was not injured.

the decision by Judge E. Warren McGuire "apparently overlooked a growing body of planning and environmental law and judicial opinion that is replacing the frontier ethic of expansion and manifest destiny with a more sober recognition that we have finite resources."

BROSHEARS — Rev. Raymond Broshears of San Francisco, unopposed candidate for the Peace and Freedom Party nomination in the Fifth Congressional District, has asserted that the federal government "is supplying the hard drugs to the ghetto areas in an effort to enslave the poor peoples and destroy the movement to end the capitalistic form of government."

'Doing Time' Sierra Club Seeking Bagley Bill Surgery

I-J Special Report

"Doing Time Through the Ages" will be discussed by Ron Silliman of the Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the committee office, 1029 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The program is the first of nine prison workshops sponsored by the committee. Discussions will be held at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday through May 23, according to publicist Alva d'Orgeix.

Speakers will include Popeye Jackson, chairman of the United Prisoners' Union; Willie Holder, president of the Prisoners' Union, and ex-convicts Pat Halloran and Roney Nunes.

Topics will range from "Third World Problems" to "The Politics of Prison Construction."

Further information may be obtained by contacting the committee.

Plea Is Due To Charge Of Assault

A Novato apartment manager charged with assaulting a tenant is due to plead to the felony count Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Joseph Paul Jordan Sr., 48, was arraigned Thursday before Judge Robert A. Smallman.

Novato police said Jordan hit tenant William E. Purkey, 19, with a sprinkler pipe following an argument over rent payment.

However, Jordan told police Purkey shouted obscenities at Mrs. Jordan and, when the apartment manager turned to walk away, Purkey pushed past Mrs. Jordan and lunged at Jordan.

Jordan's version of the fracas was omitted from an Independent-Journal story last Monday.

Egg Hunts Slated In Two Areas

An Easter egg hunt for youngsters 8 years old or younger will be held at 10 a.m. April 13 at the Terra Linda Recreation Center and at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The hunt, which will include an appearance by an Easter bunny, is sponsored by the city parks and recreation department, the San Rafael Police Officers Association and the San Rafael Jaycees.

SACRAMENTO — The Sierra Club has called for radical surgery on a bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, that the club labeled "a pig in a poke."

The measure, AB 3446, would appropriate up to $4 million to buy a buffer zone encircling Suisun Marsh, a vital link in the Pacific Flyway for migrating fowl. The assemblyman's staff said the ring of purchases would prevent encroachment into the marsh by urban land uses that are mushrooming in the area.

The Sierra Club, however, said Friday that "development interests in Solano County have succeeded in gerrymandering this ecological defense perimeter to the extent that it has shrunk considerably from the original dimensions" drafted by the state Fish and Game Department.

The county's supervisors now support the bill, the club said, "precisely because it poses little threat to their development ambitions for steel mills, breweries, power plants, industrial complexes and new towns."

The club's weekly bulletin rebutted arguments by officials of the Suisun Resource Conservation District that it was necessary to be "practical," and that the bill could be improved in future years. The bill states, in effect, that there shall be no zoning changes after the effective date of the act, the club noted.

It also objected to the bill's provision giving local government agencies "veto power over any action necessary to protect wildlife or open space or environmental quality."

The Bagley measure, the club declared, "is in need of much ripping and restitching if it is to be our protective cloak for the Suisun Marsh." Its task force on the issue already is drafting amendments that will be offered to Bagley, the club said.

"These efforts should be accompanied by strong expressions of concern from club members throughout Northern California," it said.

The bill will be assigned to the natural resources committee, chaired by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, whose district under reapportionment includes Solano County and the marsh.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, is a coauthor of the bill.

Taco Bell On Council Agenda

The long debate about the controversial Taco Bell restaurant plan will be before the Novato City Council again at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

Councilmen overruled planning commission approval by a 3-2 vote in January and then a week later agreed to reconsider that decision, a reconsideration that has been postponed since then.

The proposal for the restaurant at the southwest corner of Grant Avenue and Machin Street had been rejected by the plan review committee, which said it wouldn't be in harmony with other buildings in Novato Square.

County Board To Eye Tournery Bid

A request for a second "New Games Tournament" at the Martha Alexander Gerbode Preserve will be considered by the Marin County Board of Education when it meets tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the county schools office.

The Point Foundation, which sponsored the first event in October, is seeking permission for the second event to be held May 11, 12, 18 and 19.

Reporter Is Barred By UAW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A United Press International reporter today was barred from the press area at the second legislative conference of the United Auto Workers and the International Association of Machinists because of a Wire Service Guild strike against the news service.

The reporter, James Buckner, of San Anselmo, was told he could not attend the conference as an accredited newsman because of the labor situation.

He was allowed to watch the proceedings from space in the hall set aside for the public.

Buckner, Pacific Division business manager for UPI in San Francisco, was finishing attendance at an American Press Institute seminar in New York City when the strike started. Because he was in the East, UPI assigned him as a reporter in Washington for the duration of the strike.

Meanwhile, the strike entered its second week with no indication when negotiations might be resumed. The negotiating committee for the Wire Service Guild Saturday rejected a UPI contract offer that would have increased the minimum salary for top editorial employees by $55 in three years.

Circulation Policy On Tiburon List

A circulation policy for the Tiburon General Plan which proposes that Tiburon Boulevard remain a scenic two-lane highway will be discussed by the Tiburon City Council today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

The policy, already approved by the city planning commission also calls for:

Improving public transportation in the city.

Developing no more routes crossing the city ridgelines.

Discouraging traffic through residential areas by improving neighborhood access to Tiburon Boulevard or Paradise Drive.

Continuing to provide pedestrian, bike and hiking trails.

Maintaining Paradise Drive as a scenic route.

Providing parking separate districts downtown rather than requiring merchants to supply separate spaces.

Also today, the council will discuss proposed ordinances to regulate the conversion of apartments to condominiums, the excavation of Indian middens and the use of individual sewage disposal systems.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, March 25, the 85th day of 1974 with 281 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Italian symphony conductor Arturo Toscanini was born March 25, 1867.

In this day in history:

In 1949, the Socialist party of the United States was formed in Indianapolis.

In 1911, a total of 137 persons died when trapped in a fire that swept the Triangle Shirtwaist Co. in New York City.

In 1947, an explosion in a mine in Centralia, Ill., resulted in the deaths of 111 men, most of them asphyxiated by gas fumes.

In 1964, the Radio Corporation of America began its commercial production of television sets to receive programs in color.

A thought for the day: American novelist William Faulkner said, "I believe that man will not merely endure, he will prevail."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good Players Will Know When The Rules Should Be Broken

In our progress through life, we always follow the rules and therefore never have any problems. At the bridge table, oddly enough, the player who always follows the rules is at a disadvantage. It's my duty to warn you that the advantage of breaking a rule now and then at the bridge table shouldn't lead you to try the same thing with your income tax or your spouse.

HIGH DIAMOND

West opens the queen of diamonds, and dummy wins with the king. Declarer leads dummy's king of hearts and continues the suit until West wins with the ace.

By this time a good player in the West seat should be sure that the best chance for the defense is to produce four spade tricks.

LOW LEAD CUSTOMARY
It is customary for a player to lead a low spade from such a combination as J-8-4-2. In this case, however, the customary low lead would allow declarer to make his contract.

Suppose West leads a low spade. Dummy plays low, and East must put up the queen to win the trick. Now East cannot continue spades without yielding a trick to dummy's king. If East abandons spades, declarer will win nine tricks in the other suits.

BREAK RULES

West must break the old rules by leading the jack of spades instead of a low card. If dummy plays the king, East and West can easily take four tricks. If dummy plays low, East must play the nine. This play allows West to lead the eight of spades through the king. Dummy cannot afford to cover, and West's eight wins. West then leads another spade, and the defenders thus get four spade tricks to defeat the contract.

THE UNEXPLAINED

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

Group of Sane, Normal Persons Claim They Have Made A Ghost

Can you make a ghost? They show, he says, that "psychokinesis by committee" is possible (psychokinesis is the technical term for mind over matter).

If one group can make a ghost, Owen said, others can. None of the original group, he notes, claimed to have any special psychic gifts.

One of the ghost-makers, in the journal New Horizons, summed up their unique on-going experiment: "We've shown that in some manner we don't understand a group-of people can create a thought-directed force which can be expressed in a physical way."

There and then, eight persons agreed to meet once a week to spend an hour, possibly more, conjuring up a wholly imaginary ghost they named "Philip."

Before they were through, this mythical phantom was communicating with them in a variety of eerie ways.

If you're going to invent a ghost you might as well make him colorful and Philip was invested by his creators with a romantic aura. They made him an aristocratic Englishman who lived in the mid-1600s, had a beautiful but frigid wife whom he detested, and carried on a mad love affair with a raven-haired gypsy named Margo.

When Margo was burned as a witch, Philip, heart-broken, hurled himself from the parapet of his castle.

Hand-Fed Dolphins Back To Sea

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — Two young dolphins, whose appetites for Spanish mackerel financially broke the foundation that was feeding and studying them, were getting a taste of freedom today.

They showed signs of liking the taste of handouts better. The frisky young dolphins, named Florida and Liberty, had undergone scientific observation for nearly two years, until the Miami-based World Dolphin Foundation ran out of money to feed them.

They had been kept in a manmade lagoon just down the beach from President Nixon's Florida White House.

The chain-link fence, which closed the mouth of the lagoon, was removed after the Dolphins' 10 a.m. feeding on Sunday.

When Bob Allen, 28, of Dallas, Tex., twice tried to lead them out to freedom in the waters of Biscayne Bay by swimming along with them, they showed no taste for the open waters.

"I guess they just didn't like it out there, because they shot right back into the lagoon both times," Allen said.

When he ordered the fence removed on Sunday morning, Dr. Henry Truby, head of the foundation, said the real test would come when they got hungry.

Truby worried that the four-year-old dolphins, who have been hand fed ever since they were captured off the West Coast, will have difficulty adapting to a new life in which they must chase their own fish for food.

Today, it was a combination of what they could catch and "reduced rations" from the foundation's dwindling supplies.

Truby, from Paris, Tex., said the dolphins were never actually confined in the lagoon, and removal of the fence was "merely symbolic." The dolphins could have easily jumped it at any time in the past 20 months, or even swum over the fence at high tide.

Truby said he and his co-workers were deeply disappointed over the "unfortunate events" forcing the foundation to abandon its project and turn the bottleneck dolphins out of the lagoon.

He said results of the study could "increase immeasurably the chances of survival for their entire species...all gentle with man and curious about man."

Truby said it is true that dolphins have saved humans who were in danger of drowning, and said his scientific curiosity was raised by the fact that "it's always one dolphin, never two or more, who pushes someone to shore."

Florida and Liberty were just attaining puberty, Truby said, and he had hoped that they would reproduce in the lagoon, so he and his fellow researchers would be able to observe the development of a dolphin from birth.

But the cost of feeding them got to be too great a burden for the poorly financed foundation. Each of the dolphins ate 15 pounds of mackerel a day, and at $1 per pound, the feeding costs alone had soared to about $1,000 per month.

Abortion Law Review Turned Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today refused to review an appeal of a decision which struck down New Jersey's 1847 abortion law as an invasion of a woman's privacy and unconstitutionally vague.

Since it ruled last year that women and their doctors have a right to decide on an abortion in the first trimester of pregnancy, the court has declined to hear any abortion cases.

Before the Supreme Court's last decision on abortion, a three-judge district court had declared that the New Jersey abortion statute "is unconstitutionally vague on its face as applied" because it "chills and deters the plaintiff-physicians in the exercise of protected First Amendment activities and...it violates plaintiff-physicians rights under the 14th Amendment to freely practice the profession of their choice."

In other action today, the court:

Declined to hear an Arkansas case in which police officers posing as gamblers intercepted telephone calls without a specific warrant.

Reversed the contempt conviction of a courtroom witness in Oklahoma because he had not been warned once before being cited for using profanity.

Agreed to review an antitrust ruling against Gulf Oil Co. for allegedly trying to monopolize the asphalt industry in Southern California.

Denied an appeal by a Pennsylvania state police captain dismissed at age 60 even though he was "physically and mentally competent to continue to perform his duties."

Aide Sought In Proposed Women's Plan

The Marin County Criminal-Justice Planning Department is recruiting now for a coordinator of the proposed women's correctional program.

Bella H. Aaron, director of the department, said the position will be filled within two months when the new project is slated to begin.

The Independent-Journal erred Friday in saying Ralph Merola, director of the corrections department, had been slated to be coordinator.

The proposed women's program calls for educational and vocational training and counseling to female prisoners at the jail, among other things.

Champ Weighs In At Hefty 224-Plus

CARACAS (UPI) — Heavy-weight champion George Foreman scaled a career-high 224 3/4 pounds today when he weighed in for tomorrow's title fight against Ken Norton.

Norton, who planned to come in at between 212-213 pounds, was right on the button at an official 212 3/4 pounds.

After Foreman had stepped off the scales, his manager-trainer Dick Sadler shouted, "He'll weigh 218 to 220 after a training session tomorrow."

Foreman never previously weighed more than 219 or less than 215 pounds for any of his fights.

Norton said he was "very happy" with his weight.

Norton arrived 45 minutes before the noon weigh-in, five minutes ahead of Foreman. They passed within 15-feet of each other in the lobby of the Poliedro, the site of the fight, but did not look or speak at each other.

After inspecting the ring, Foreman alternated between sitting on the trunk of his limousine and talking with members of his entourage, or lying down with his eyes closed. He looked completely relaxed.

Asked if he was thinking ahead to September and his projected $10 million fight against former champion Muhammad Ali in Kinshasha, Zaïre Foreman said, "I'm only thinking about Venezuela."

When newsmen asked if the prospect of a $5 million payday against Ali was not in the back of his mind, Foreman said, "It would take a doctor to find it."

Lawwill Tardy But Victorious

CHULA VISTA — Mert Lawwill of Tiburon showed up late and left pretty early Saturday night in the Cal Rayborn Memorial motorcycle race here Saturday night.

Lawwill was able to get in only a lap or two of practice following his late arrival, then spent a minimum of time on the track by winning the trophy dash and finishing a close second to Fremont's Rick Hocking in the 15-lap main event.

The race was a benefit for the family of Cal Rayborn of nearby Spring Valley, who was killed in late 1973 while racing in New Zealand. Over $15,000 was raised.

MUHAMMAD ALI

GEORGE FOREMAN
Making plans

Norton was first up on the scales.

Another fight behind closed doors also was likely.

Foreman's trainer, Dick Sadler, was fined an undisclosed amount Sunday for failing to appear before the local Boxing Commission to discuss the rules for the fight.

Sadler, however, maintains the local Commission has nothing to do with the fight which, he insists, is under the jurisdiction of the World Boxing Council and the World Boxing Association. The local people think differently. They say they have exclusive control.

Norton, who split two 12-round decisions with Ali last year, was due to leave his mountain retreat of the last three days, where he went for peace and quiet.

The gate for tomorrow's fight, being telecast live to 70 countries, was expected to be in the range of $3 million. Foreman, 25, is on a $700,000 guarantee against 40 per cent of all monies, while Norton, 28, receives $200,000 or 20 per cent.

Some tickets, ranging from $14 to $140, still were available at the 15,000-seat Poliedro for the bout which will be carried live on local television.

Foreman, the 1968 Olympic gold medal winner, will be making only the second defense of the title he won 14 months ago from Joe Frazier, whom he blitzed inside two rounds on the Caribbean island of Jamaica. Joe "King" lasted less than a round last September in Tokyo.

Norton, a San Diego resident, rose to prominence just a year ago when he broke Ali's jaw in their first fight. Besides his loss to Ali in the rematch, he was knocked out by Venezuela's Jose Luis Garcia in 1970.

Ali will be on hand for the fight to do a color commentary for television. He was scheduled to arrive tonight.

Foreman says he hopes to score a quick knockout, while Norton hopes to nullify the champion's greater power through "speed and deception."

The two judges and referee for the fight will be Venezuelan, according to the rules laid down by the local Boxing Commission. The three-knockdown rule has been waived but the mandatory eight count remains for knockdowns.

Ambassadors Sign 5 players

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Ambassadors, newest team of the World Football League, have signed five free agents to 1974 contracts, the club has announced.

This brought to 34 the total of players signed.

The latest five are Rich Thomas, defensive back from Eastern Kentucky; Perry Goodell, Arkansas Tech linebacker; Boice Best, defensive tackle, Texas A&M; Al Reese, a running back from Tennessee State University, formerly with the San Diego Chargers; and Rick Fisher, Murray State College running back who played with the St. Louis Cardinals last year.

College Basketball Title Game Tonight

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Norman Sloan of North Carolina State and Al McGuire of Marquette, two basketball coaches who believe strongly in love, were down to the final game of the season tonight as their teams met for the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship.

"This team is made up of men who truly love one another — that's why it has been a winner," said Sloan, 47-year-old Indiana native who played in the backcourt at N.C. State 25 years ago under legendary Everett Case.

Sloan said the family feeling generated by his players toward each other and their coaches has made them a team.

David Thompson, Monte Towe, Tim Stoddard and Mark Moeller were key sophomores last year and are in their second year of play with current seniors Tom Burleson and Steve Nuece.

Sloan conceded it took awhile before junior college transfers Moe Rivers and Phil Spence, new to the squad this season, fit in comfortably as members of the family.

McGuire said before Marquette began its season, "It's definitely going to depend upon if the players really love each other or just make believe and have their love affairs with the semi agents who will tout them and blow their heads out of proportion."

The N.C. State Wolfpack, No. 1 in the nation and 29-1 on the season with a 27-game winning streak, is averaging 92 points a game.

Marquette, ranked No. 3 on a 26-4 record, traditionally has been a defensive leader under McGuire.

His Warriors are 104-11 for their last four seasons. In those 115 games they have yielded more than 75 points only 11 times, twice in overtime games.

The Wolfpack recovered from

Suns Blot Out Warriors' Last Ray Of Hope

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Former Los Angeles Laker Keith Erickson paced the Phoenix Suns with a career high of 40 points to sink Golden State 134-121 last night, destroying the Warriors' hopes for a play-off berth.

The loss, coupled with Los Angeles' 150-124 win over Buffalo, boosted the Lakers into the National Basketball Association Pacific Division title.

The hot shooting of Cazzie Russell, who led the Warriors' with 46 points, gave Golden State a three-point halftime lead.

But Phoenix bulldozed its way back early in the third quarter and the lead see-sawed several times before the Suns pulled away.

The Suns scored 36 points in their big third quarter, hitting for 64 per cent, and took an 11 point lead into the final period.

The frustrated Warriors could not overcome the lead and Phoenix drew steadily away in the final quarter.

Russell set a Phoenix Coliseum record with his 21 field goals, and his 46 points were three shy of his career high.

San Marin Wins In Baseball

If the baseball players from San Marin High School are not also involved in the drama program, they ought to be, considering the way they played Saturday.

The Mustangs rallied for two runs after two were out in the bottom of the ninth inning to defeat Riordan of San Francisco, 4-3, in a non-league baseball game at San Marin.

Barry Leslie doubled over the left fielder's head on a 3-and-2 pitch with the bases loaded to score both runs, after Al Davidson singled. Bob Louie walked and Ken Ronshaussen reached base on an error.

In Saturday's only other game, the Marin Catholic Wildcats' six-game winning streak was broken by Vintage in Napa, 4-0.

Wheels Sign Runner Scarber

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Wheels of the New World Football League yesterday announced the signing of Sam Scarber, who was a running back with Edmonton of the Canadian football league and a fullback at the University of New Mexico.

Scarber, 6-foot-3 and 230 pounds, was one of the Wheels' original pro draft choices, but was not among those picked because he agreed to terms previous to the draft, said Sonny Grandelius Wheels' general manager.

Scarber gained 961 yards in his senior year at New Mexico, breaking an old school mark. Now 25, he was the third round draft choice of the National Football League Dallas Cowboys in 1971 and was traded to Los Angeles that same year.

SAFE AT THE PLATE

Chicago White Sox pitcher Stan Perzanowski Saturday was spilled at home plate in a Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. exhibition baseball game. New York Yankees' Otto Velez scored from third base on a passed ball. He flattened Perzanowski in the process when the pitcher attempted to cover the plate and make the belated tag. The Yankees won, 2-1.

IN PRO BOWLING TOURNEY

Martinez Man's Timing Good

It isn't enough just to bowl well. You have to bowl well at the right time, as Rob Van Leemput demonstrated yesterday.

The kegler from Martinez saved a 256 for the head-to-head championship game and used it to overcome a 226 by John Reeser of San Francisco to win the Professional Central California Bowlers tournament yesterday at Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

Van Leemput stood in the background previously while other bowlers turned in tremendous scores, but when the time came he was able to pocket the $700 first prize.

In first-round qualifying Saturday, Bill George of Citrus Heights, near Sacramento, rolled a 300 game, and Tony Simao of Daly City bowled the highest qualifying series in the history of the tournament, 1,952 for eight games, including a 290 game.

Bob Bowers also had a 290 and Jim Lassle and Bill Ballard recorded 289s in qualifying.

The top 24 from Saturday bowled another eight-game qualifier yesterday, and Van Leemput was a modest second there as the top five qualified for head-to-head play.

Fourth-place Mike Leong of San Francisco defeated fifth-place Ed Silva of San Bruno, 204-197, but then lost to third-place Tim Kendall of Union City, 222-111. Van Leemput edged Kendall, 175-169, before beating Reeser.

Reeser won $400, Kendall $300, Leong $250, and Silva $225. Some 200 bowlers from throughout Northern California competed.

met Mrs. Pastore in match play before, but they went head-on-head last year when Mrs. Bailey narrowly won the medal play Oakland City Championship.

The San Francisco men's title was won yesterday by Tom Culligan III of Foster City, who defeated Steve Lamphere, 6-and-5.

Swimmers Break Age Group Marks

SACRAMENTO — Nancy Ridout and Lyle Collett of Marin Aquatic Club set national age group records yesterday at the Sacramento YMCA Masters Pentathlon AAU Swim Meet.

Ridout, in the 30-34 age group, won first place and set national records in the 50-yard backstroke (35.8) and 50-yard breaststroke (40.2). Collett, in the 65-69 age group, won and established national records in the 50 back (38.8) and 100-yard individual medley (1:20.3).

Marin A. C. member Greg Jacobs (25-29) was third and set an Amateur Athletic Union Pacific Association record in the 50-yard breast (31.0). Dore Schwab (50-54) was third in her age group.

yesterday rallied to defeat defending champion Lauren Howe, one-up, to reach the finals of the San Francisco City Golf Championship.

She will make her sixth appearance in the finals — how's that for persistence? — next Sunday against Cheryl Pastore, a 5-and-3 victor over Susan Williams. The two 18-hole rounds will be held at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at Harding Park.

Mrs. Bailey was three holes down after 10 yesterday, but won four of the next six and halved the final two for her victory.

"I was scrambling all over the place," she said, "and she (Miss Howe) was playing perfect golf. But then she relaxed a little bit."

Mrs. Bailey took the 11th, halved the 12th despite three-putting from 30 feet, won the 13th with a birdie, won the 14th when Miss Howe missed a four-foot putt, halved the 15th, and recovered from a bad second shot to win the 16th when Miss Howe missed another four-foot.

Cardinals Return Johnstone To A's

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced yesterday they had returned outfielder first baseman Jay Johnstone to the Oakland Athletics.

Johnstone had been with the Cardinals on a conditional basis and they had until April 1 to decide whether to keep him.

Seals Show Ineptness In Defeat

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings are about the hottest team in the National Hockey League and the California Seals are about the sorriest. The Kings erupted for five goals in the second period yesterday to hand the Seals their 50th loss of the season, 7-1.

The win set a team record for the Kings, who have played their last 11 games without a setback and are playoff-bound. After a scoreless first period, Goring rapped in his 24th goal of the season at 1:21 of the second period.

Pete Laframboise smashed in a 40-foot slapshot three minutes later to give the Seals a tie, but that was it for California. Nevin nailed his 17th goal of the campaign at 5:52 to start the stream of Seals' scores.

Finally — Marin Lacrosse Club Gets First Win

It was a while in coming, but when it finally came, there was no doubt about it.

The Marin Lacrosse Club won its first game since 1972 yesterday in grand style, outscoring the University of Washington 7-1 in the first period en route to a 15-3 victory at Mill Valley Middle School.

John Heath scored three goals and added three assists, while Dave Guarnieri and Rusty Hay contributed three goals each. Marin, 1-2 for the year, will meet Northern California Lacrosse Association foe Palo Alto Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Middle School.

In Ira Markwett Junior League play yesterday, Novato Parks and Recreation defeated San Francisco, 10-1, and the Italian Athletic Club whipped San Rafael, 13-4.

While the end result may have been the same, St. Vincent's method of victory was different in each game.

In the opener, the Mustangs scored six times in the third inning, but had to hold on as O'Connell scored six times in the final four innings.

In the nightcap, it was St. Vincent which rallied late, putting together a three-run surge in the sixth to overcome a 6-5 deficit.

Sanoma State College may not be winning in track and field, but it gets a record setting performance each time out.

The Cossacks saw their season mark fall to 0-2 Saturday with an 85-67 non-league loss to visiting Stanislaus State. In its opener March 16 in Davis, Sonoma bowed 144-24 to the University of California at Davis, but the Cossacks set three new school track records.

Saturday, Sonoma's highlight came in the 120-yard high hurdles, where Don Klosterman established a school record with a 15.1 first place finish. He also won the 440 intermediate hurdles in 59.5.

The Cossacks dominated the running events. Dave Gestri won both the 100 (10.2) and the 220 (22.8). Butch Alexander took the 880 (1:58.4). Romero Mendoza won the mile (4:27.5). and Bob Bunnell prevailed in the two mile (9:45.2).

Sanoma State College is al-ready deep in a hole in the Far Western Conference baseball race.

The Cossacks (0-3) dug themselves in Saturday afternoon by dropping both ends of a FWC doubleheader, 3-0 and 4-2, to visiting Chico State.

The two victories gave the Wildcats a sweep of the three-game series after they opened with a 3-1 victory over Sonoma Friday.

In the opener Saturday, the Cossacks were shut out for the first time this season.

There was encouragement in the loss, though; it marked the return of pitcher Gary Neville, who missed all last season due to a shoulder injury.

Neville went the distance, and gave up just two earned runs while fanning seven and walking four. "Neville pitched exceptionally well, especially with the shoulder problems he's had," said coach Gary Hughes later.

Sonoma broke a string of 1 scoreless innings with two runs in the fifth frame of the nightcap. Randy Jackson drove in both runs with a single following a two-out single by Jim Crabb and a double by Dal Lyster.

Good Greif! A's Are Shut Out By Padres

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI) — Three San Diego pitchers shut out the world champion Oakland Athletics 2-0 in a spring training exhibition game yesterday.

The Padre hurlers gave up just five hits and allowed the A's to advance only one runner as far as second base.

Bill Greif pitched the first six innings and gave up three hits. Rich Troedson gave up one hit in two frames, and Vicente Romo allowed one hit in the final inning.

The loss went to Ken Holtzman, who worked the first six innings for the A's.

The Padre scores came in the first inning on a single by Bobby Tolan, a sacrifice by Derrel Thomas and a single by Cito Gaston, who also drove in the second run in the fifth inning, scoring Tolan.

The Padres also announced that veteran outfielder Ivan Murrell had been placed on waivers.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS

Favored Redwood Will Have To Hustle

By LEW CODDINGTON
Redwood High School hasn't become any weaker, but its opposition has improved quite a bit, so the Giants will have to hustle every step of the way if they want to win an unprecedented third straight baseball championship.

The Marin County Athletic League season will open tomorrow with four games scheduled: San Marin at Tamalpais, Marin Catholic at Drake, Terra Linda at Novato and Redwood vs. San Rafael at Albert Field, all at 4 p.m.

Redwood went 23-5 in winning back-to-back titles in 1972 and 1973, and capped its achievement by winning the Tournament of Champions last year. From that team return two all-league players, catcher Doug Hartman and shortstop Gary La Torre, and two second-team selections, pitcher Ed Anderson (who hurled a perfect game last year) and reliable outfielder and leadoff man Jeff Vogel. "We have the best hitting team we've had at Redwood,"

Tennis Club Seeks Permit

A permit for a tennis club on the site of a former discount store will be considered by the Larkspur Planning Commission when it meets tomorrow at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Plans for the club at the former Disco store at the corner of Magnolia Avenue and Doherty Drive have been submitted by Charles Amundsen of Larkspur.

The structure would become the Mount Tam Racquet Club and include eight outdoor and five indoor tennis courts, volleyball and badminton courts, swimming pool, bar-lounge and clubhouse.

said coach Al Endriss. Outfielder Rob Long, who sat out last year to play hockey, has been pounding the ball in pre-season. So has third-baseman Phil Bagicalupi, who also can pitch after recovering from a severe case of tendinitis sustained two years ago.

Redwood appears to have found a second pitcher, however, in lefthander Jeff Lucchesi.

The chief challengers to the Giants, judging by pre-season record, will be Marin Catholic and Terra Linda.

The Wildcats (8-1) have excellent pitching led by Tom Cronin and bolstered by Terry Ryan and Jeff Knotts. Coach Dave Gonsalves also is pleased by his defense, led by Tim Little at shortstop, Jamie Connolly at second base and Mike Niven, the best defensive first-baseman in the school's history.

Terra Linda (6-4) also relies on pitching and defense. Kevin Kirby, Dana Beck and Mike Bird head a deep mound staff. The Trojans also are swift on the basepaths, with 33 stolen bases in their first nine games.

San Marin, San Rafael and Tamalpais may provide trouble. None had a losing record in pre-season, and all have pitching.

Tam starters John Porter and Jim Beckham and relievers David Haxton and Ethan Winterling have looked good, and outfielder Alvin Hall is a solid hitter.

San Marin has Mike Robertson, Matt Womack, Kevin Andel and John Bulleri pitching well, and has Bob Louie, a second-team all-leaguer, in the infield.

San Rafael returns Mike Faris, undefeated in five league decisions last year as a pitcher, and Dave Steele, all-league catcher as a sophomore last season.

Novato has the league's only new coach, Bill Aires, who replaces Marlin Olsen. Graduation stripped the Hornets of several stars, but they still have second-team all-leagues infielder Dave Brazell at third and Jeff Pond at first.

Drake will be relying on defense and pitching. Catcher

Warren Pino has been hitting well in pre-season, and Bill Slaby has been pitching well.

Coaches are Endriss, Gonsalves, Aires, Terra Linda's Keith Fraser, San Rafael's Jack Sims, San Marin's Ron Butori, Drake's Dick Creighton and Tam's Mike Campas.

LOGJAM OF PILINGS

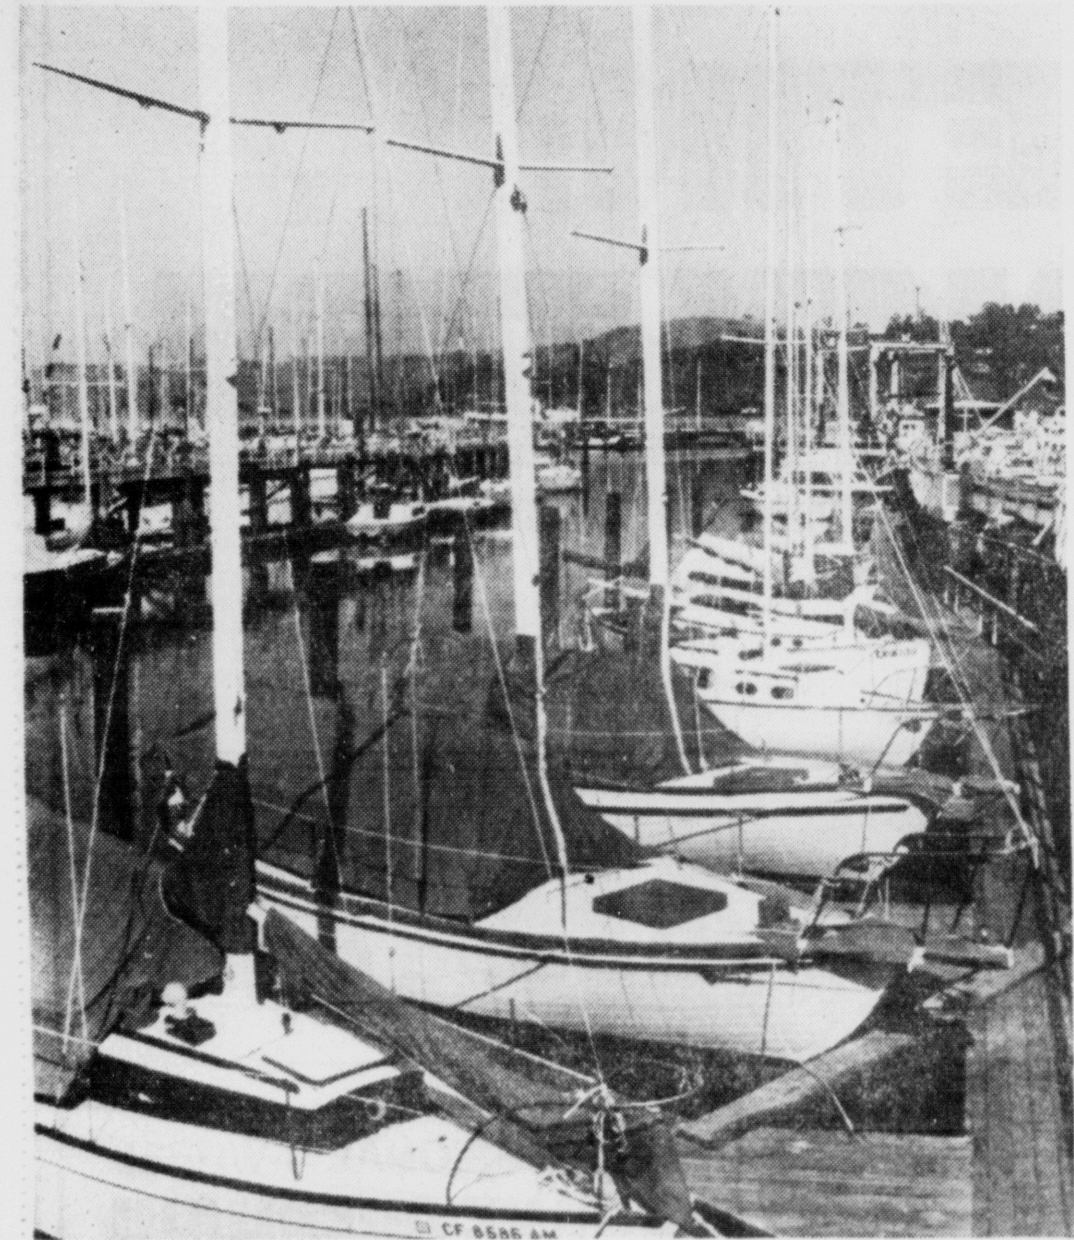

Although this scene could be mistaken for an Oregon river town during a logging run, it is the Sausalito waterfront at the foot of Johnson Street. The logs are pilings, now hangouts for seabirds and an occasional scuttling crab, which will be used for the future expansion of the Sausalito Yacht Harbor. The waterfront, as captured in these photographs by Bob Hax, is a study in contrasts, from the wreck of an old schooner to shipshape sailboats.

ABANDONED — The splintering hull of the lumber schooner Peter Lassen deteriorates in its grave along the Sausalito waterfront, where it once was a robust vessel carrying lumber from the San Francisco Bay to Sacramento. Story has it that the Lassen, its days as a working ship numbered, was ditched here near Johnson Street by its colorful captain, One Eyed Jack.

MASSSES OF MASTS — Sailboats and motorvessels, bedded down tautly with rope and bright blue canvas, bob in peaceful rows at Herb Madden's Sausalito Yacht Harbor, a center for weekend sailors as well as a neighborhood for sea folks who live on their boats.

GROUNDSED SEABIRDS — Seaplanes look awkward confined to dry land on the Richardson Bay waterfront north of Sausalito. The one at right, engineless, will be removed soon, according to Chris Hansen, who manages the tiny airport and operates a flying school from the spot. Seaplanes have flown from here since 1953, but little aeronautical activity has been observed in recent years.

NEW HOUSEBOAT TOWN — Piers for houseboats rise on the waterfront north of the Sausalito city limits at George Kappas' Gate 6 Marina. The piers, erected in response to a two-year county plan to clean up the houseboat towns, will include sewer lines, halting for the first time the discharge of raw sewage into the bay.

WASTELAND — Broken concrete and other flotsam and jetsam is bared by low tide south of Dunphy Park. The vacant property is owned by Sam Zackessian, whose proposal for a Victorian Village here has been snubbed by the city council, fearing its carnival atmosphere and attraction for tourists.

BAY PARK — A slide and other playground apparatus, deserted on this sunny day, watch over the grassy stretches of Earl F. Dunphy Park on the waterfront. The park is gradually being completed by citizen volunteers and city crews.

SERENE — With the gray outline of Mount Tamalpais in the background, a small boat slices through bay waters beside the Napa Street Pier in Sausalito. There are many plans for development in the area, some of them active, others dormant. Some land lies barren until the city decides its preferences for development, seeking to shape the future character of the Sausalito shoreline.

Recovery Hopes Of Revere Good

Q. What do you think are the prospects for recovery for Revere Copper & Brass (NYSE)? I still hold 100 shares bought in 1968 at $30. — B.L.

A. From a peak of $4.03 a share in 1966, Revere's earnings dwindled yearly, dipping $1.70 per share into the red in 1972. The company made modest progress in turning operations around last year, reporting a 43-cent-a-share profit for 1973. In view of the level of sales — $492.5 million in 1973 — there is substantial leverage for a more impressive performance this year. Assuming a

Report Of Recession Hits Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved lower today in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange amid a report the economy is entering a recession.

The Joint Economic Committee of Congress predicted the country's unemployment rate will near 6 per cent by the middle of the year and the rate of inflation will rise to 8 per cent before the year has ended.

Sears lost more than a point following a Wall Street Journal report that an analysis of the company's report of a higher year net was causing some concern about the firm's future prospects. One analyst noted that most of Sears' gain came from Allstate Insurance rather than from sale of its goods.

General Motors also declined. A Wall Street publication said some analysts had lowered their own estimates of GM's first quarter earnings.

Union Carbide, a gainer last week, was off 1/4 at 37 1/2. American Telephone and Telegraph, one of the most active stocks last week, was off 1/4 at 50 1/2. Ford Motors slipped fractionally to 50 1/2. U.S. Steel gained almost a point to 43 1/2. Xerox dropped 1/2 to 15 1/2.

Prices were lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

I would be inclined to retain these shares for partial recovery to your buy price.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Larry Brink Will Close Doors Of Lincoln-Mercury Dealership

Larry Brink Motors, Mill Valley's Lincoln-Mercury dealership on Blithedale Avenue, will close its doors this summer after more than 18 years of operation, leaving Marin Bay in San Rafael as the only Lincoln-Mercury dealer in Marin.

Larry Brink, the former Los Angeles Rams' football star who opened his Mill Valley business in 1955, is liquidating his entire inventory, including used cars, demonstrators, motor homes and campers.

"We hope to move to Hawaii about June," said Brink. He and his wife Betty have purchased a home on the Kona Coast, where they plan to live for at least two years.

Brink said he is not sure what he will be doing in Hawaii but will explore several possibilities, including real estate and land development, or sports promotion.

Brink was a member of the Los Angeles Rams, world champion in 1951 and the western division champs for three years in a row with a tie for first the fourth year. Playing defensive end, he was all-pro for three years. Brink played for the Rams six years and the Chicago Bears for a year.

He said the closing of his auto dealership was not a sudden move but something that has been brewing for more than two years. "Ford Motor Company determined two and one-half years ago that Marin should have only one Lincoln-Mercury dealership and that when I closed, there would be no successor," Brink said he decided that the time is now, and he wants to "seek new pastures and new challenges."

The auto showroom building which he built at 653 Blithedale

Avenue will be leased to another tenant or tenants, preferably to a financial institution or a title company.

LAIRD F. DOHERTY of Novato has been promoted to assistant vice president in the general systems division of Crocker Bank's operations department, San Francisco. He joined Crocker Bank in 1964 and had been a systems officer before the promotion.

PARIS COIFFURES beauty salon at 844 Third Street (old Town House Hair Stylists) will be sold to new owners by the end of this month.

New owners will be Judith D. Pagnusat of San Anselmo and Sharon L. Ratto of Corte Madera, both with about six years of experience, mostly with Jay of Marin in San Rafael.

Mrs. Pagnusat said she and Miss Ratto plan to change the name of the beauty salon but have not decided on the new name. They will provide all regular beauty services, specializing in hair cutting and styling, plus manicures, waxing and pedicures.

PARIS Coiffures is owned by Andrew Paris of Ross and his brother Brian Paris, a Sausalito real estate man, who bought the former Town House about a year ago. Brian Paris said they decided to sell Paris Coiffures because he is too busy in real estate and his brother has his hands full running Andre Paris Hair Fashions (the former Jolie Madame) at Montecito Shopping Center in San Rafael.

In search of the sure thing.

It's really more fun to make money than to lose money. And it's easier, too. But you'd never know it from watching the wonderful ways people find to throw away their money.

Like building an apartment over the San Andreas Fault.

Or placing bets on long-shot horses, stocks, or the price of sunflower seeds.

Why not make money the easy way? Just open an account at Ross Valley Savings. We pay between 5 1/4% and 7 1/2% a year, and your savings are insured to $20,000 by an agency of the Federal Government.

U.S.-Soviet Cancer Is Compared

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — Cancer of the stomach is the most common form of the disease in Russia but it ranks far down the list of American cancers and a leading Soviet scientist says the reason is a mystery.

"It's very hard to explain and its very hard to understand," said Dr. Vadim N. Gerasimenko, deputy director of the Institute of Experimental and Clinical Oncology in Moscow, in a report released today.

He said at a science writers seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society that gastric cancer is the leading form of the disease in both men and women in Russia although its incidence is decreasing. It ranks ninth in the U.S. and also is decreasing, for unknown reasons.

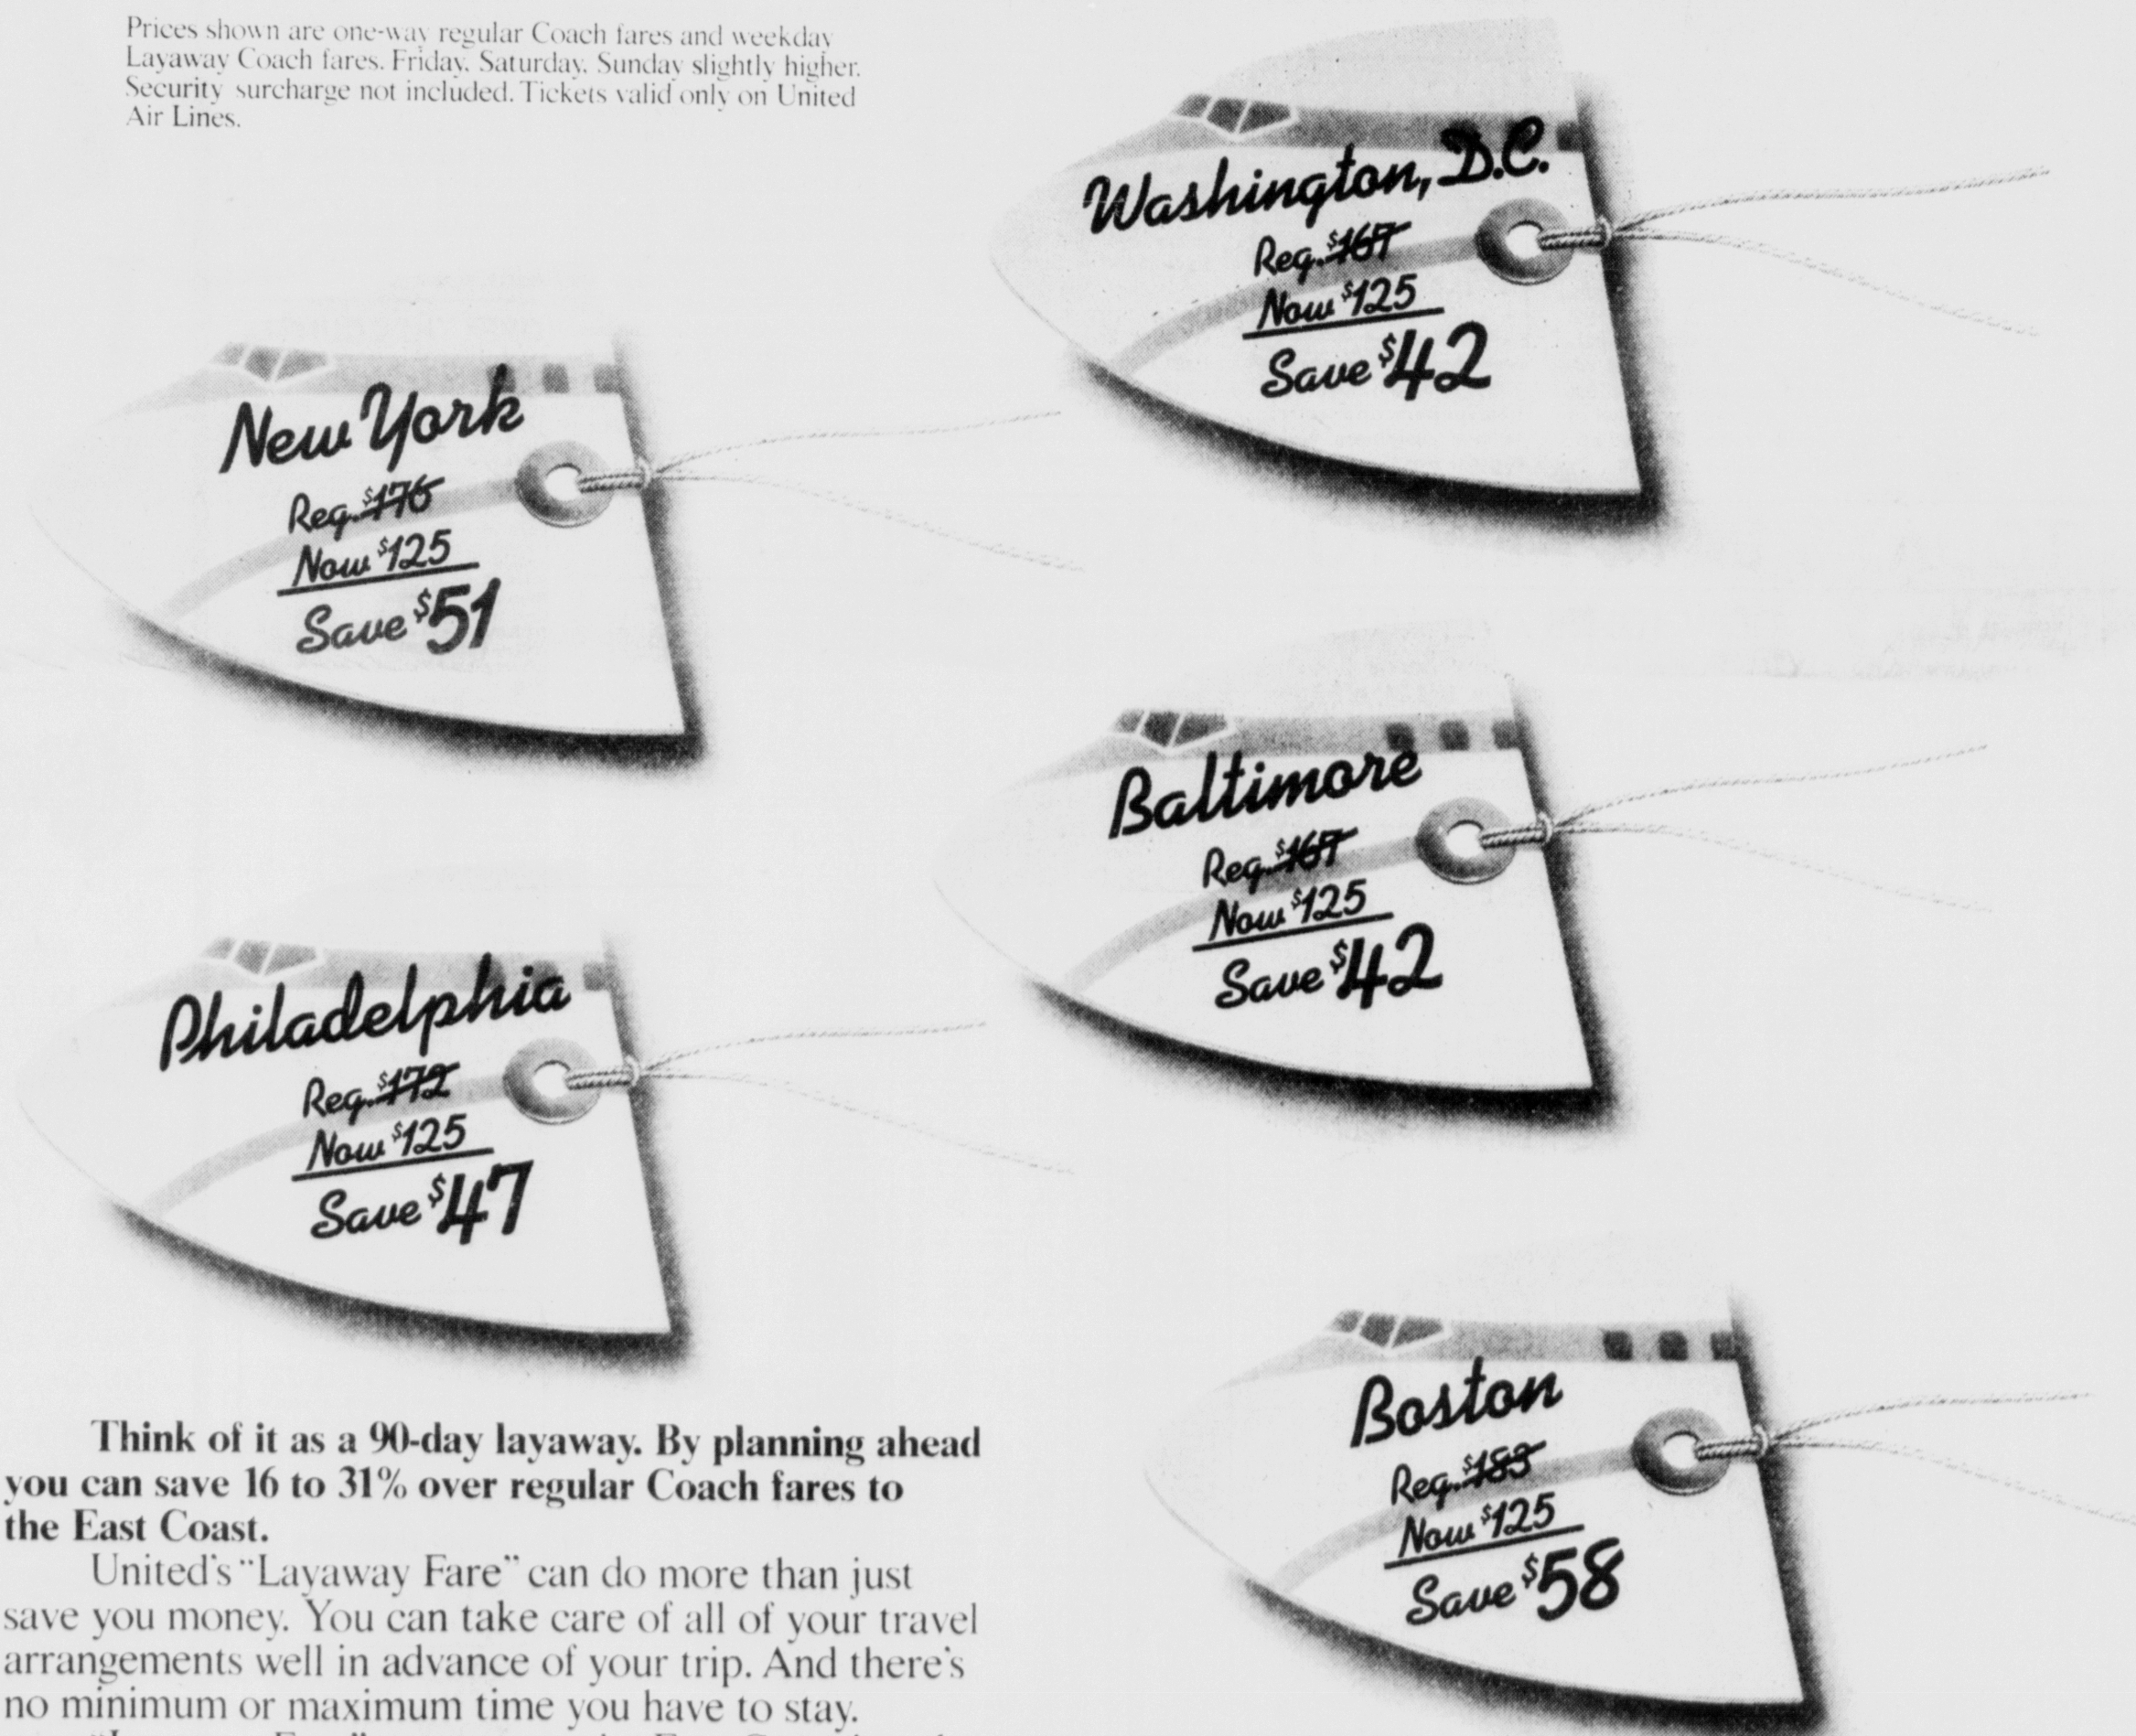

Lung cancer ranks second among Soviet men followed by cancer of the skin and esophagus. Stomach cancer is followed by cancer of the uterine cervix, skin, breast, lungs and esophagus among women in Russia. Lung and breast cancers are increasing in Russia.

In the United States, lung cancer is most common among men and breast cancer is most common among women. Lung cancer is also increasing in the U.S., but breast cancer cases are showing no change.

Gerasimenko, reporting on cancer control efforts in Russia, said cancer is responsible for 16 per cent of all deaths there and is second only to cardiovascular diseases. An almost identical situation exists in the United States.
